Truck Driver Burned to Death After Crash In Fog Near City

Victim Pinned In Wreckage as Fire Breaks Out

Vehicle Rams Rear of Truck From Same Company That Had Been Halted By Another Accident On Route 42; Cargo of Paint, Oil Blazes.

A 30-year-old truck driver was burned to death in the cab of a Cleveland-bound freight truck early today when the heavily loaded vehicle crashed into the rear of a parked truck in a dense fog on U. S. route 42, five miles northeast of Mansfield, and then caught fire.

The victim was Clarence Loy of Cleveland, a driver for the Commercial Motor Freight company whose paint and oil laden truck rammed the rear of another truck owned by the company which had stopped on the highway because of another accident that had occurred a few minutes before.

State highway patrolmen said the collision occurred about 6:30 a. m. and that passing motorists were unable to extricate the driver because the truck immediately burst into flames. Loy's death was the 21st traffic fatality in Richland county this year. Nineteen persons had been killed at this time in 1938.

According to the officers, Sterling B. Tinkey, 34, of Cleveland, also driving a Commercial Motor Freight truck, Cleveland-bound from Columbus, halted his vehicle on the road when stopped by another driver.

Tinkey told patrolmen that he was just emerging from the cab of his truck with a flare in his hand when Loy's truck hit his vehicle, causing it to overturn.

He said that before he could get to the cab to assist Loy, the truck burst into flames.

Patrolmen said Tinkey had been stopped due to an earlier accident in which another Akron-bound freight truck had collided with a passenger car in the heavy fog.

They said the vehicle operated by Stanley K. Tayler, 25, of Akron had rammed into the rear of a small coupe driven by Anna Ruth Palmer, 45, of Lexington. Miss Palmer lost control of her car which plunged over a 15-foot embankment and into a field. She was uninjured.

She told police that by the time she emerged from her car the

Motorists stopped near the burning truck but efforts to reach Loy, pinned in the cab of his truck, were frustrated by the intense heat.

GLATTKE HEADS PRISON WARDENS

(Picture On Page 4)

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the Mansfield State Reformatory, today had been elected president of the National Prison Wardens association, The News-Journal has been advised.

The association is part of the American Prison Congress, and has been in its annual convention in New York city all this week. Election of officers and selection of a 1940 convention city took place late yesterday.

Cincinnati was selected for the 1940 convention. Columbus had also been bidding for the convention.

Glattke, who became superintendent at the Reformatory here in 1935, has been secretary of the association for the past year, and was also a member of the resolutions committee.

He left Mansfield, Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Glattke, and is expected back tomorrow or Sunday. Also attending the convention are State Welfare Director Charles Sherwood and William K. Mackey, Ohio general parole agent, former chaplain at the Mansfield institution.

DOESN'T KNOW HE'S DOOMED

Wife Slayer's Plea For Clemency Refused; Has 60 Hours to Live.

ERIE, Pa.—(AP)—Paul Ferry, 51-year-old wife slayer who has escaped the electric chair 13 times through reprieves, awoke in a jail cell today unaware he has only 60 hours to live.

Jail Warden Matt Hess said he would not tell him until late today that the state board of pardons had denied his last appeal for clemency and that he would be executed Sunday midnight.

"Telling him is a job I don't want," declared Hess. "I am convinced Ferry is insane and should not be sent to the chair. But there is nothing I can do about it."

STILL CHAMP

State's Best Corn Husker Wins His Third County Title.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O.—(INS)—Farmers admitted today that Noble Goodman is the best cornhusker in Wyandot county. For the third successive year Goodman, the 1937 state champion, downed all comers in the standing corn competition. Thus he will represent the county in the state contest near Delaware next week.

Goodman yesterday husked 24.49 bushels of corn in the alloted time.

TRUCKER DIES

Akron Man, Hurt Near Ashland, Loses Fight for Life.

ASHLAND—Harvey Akers, 26, of Akron, injured Tuesday when the truck he was driving struck a bridge abutment on route 42 near Ashland, died at noon today in Good Samaritan hospital.

Akers' former wife, Mrs. Edith Akers, who had given her blood for a transfusion in an attempt to save his life, was at his bedside when he died. She said she would re-marry Akers if he lived. They were divorced last Monday.

The death was Ashland county's third traffic fatality this month and the ninth of the year. Akers was the driver of a truck which was transporting a valuable cargo of liquor.

WANTS TO DIE

Slayer of Wife 'Sorry' When Court Gives Him Life Sentence.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Carl Lechler, 51-year-old wife slayer sentenced to life imprisonment, was "disappointed" today that his life had been spared by a three-judge court.

"I am disappointed in the verdict," the former city ambulance driver said as he heard sentence. "I had hoped for something different . . . I hoped that you three eminent judges sitting there would see fit to give me the extreme penalty. I looked forward to it."

Lechler shot and killed his estranged wife, Mary, 28, last Aug. 10 on a downtown street.

CITY CAMPAIGN TEMPO STEPS UP

Republicans List 8 Meetings for Next Week; Dems Hold Big Rally Tomorrow.

Mansfield political leaders were ready today to make up for any time they lost in getting their municipal campaigns under way.

The Democrats, off to a head start with a meeting Wednesday night, will stage a city-wide rally at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at Prospect park with Atty. A. S. Beach as the principal speaker.

Republicans, who will not begin their drive for votes until Monday night, have scheduled eight meetings today in all parts of the city, ending Nov. 2 with a city-wide rally in Senior high school auditorium.

Candidates of both parties were guests at an entertainment program given by Delano lodge of steel workers at the lodge hall on Bowman street last night. Mayor Claude M. Hunter headed the Democratic delegation, and his Republican opponent, William J. Locke, led the G. O. P. contingent.

Earlier in the evening the Demo-

PRANK FATAL

Dayton Man Dies After Chasing Boys Who Broke Door.

DAYTON, O.—(U.P.)—A Halloween prank was held indirectly responsible today for the death of a man. Hugh McDonnell, 62, a Spanish-American war veteran. McDonnell chased a group of boys who broke the front door glass at his home last night, he told police. Later he complained of pains in his side and died of a heart ailment. The pranksters got away.

BIGELOW DEM GOVERNOR HOPE?

Party Powers See Possibility of Pension Leader Rolling Into Strong Candidate.

(By Associated Press)

STEUBENVILLE—Some powers in the Ohio Democratic party made no effort today to conceal the belief that Herbert S. Bigelow might have to be reckoned with in the gubernatorial race next year.

While not all of them support his old age pension amendment, to be voted on Nov. 7, they feel his aid for aged movement could pick up enough momentum—regardless of whether it was adopted—to make him a powerful contender for the governorship.

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey, speaking last night before approximately 2,000 Democrats at the 15th annual party given by John F. Nolan, Jefferson county Democratic chairman, recalled the "ham and eggs" candidates for governor and U. S. senator were elected in California, although their pension proposition was voted down.

"You can draw your own conclusions," he remarked regarding

THROUGH RACING

Roscoe Turner Ends High Speed Flying Career at 44.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Roscoe Turner, one of America's best known flyers and only living three-time winner of the Thompson trophy race, admitted today that so far as competitive flying is concerned, he is going to hang up his wings.

Turner who is 44, began flying in 1915. Airplane racing, he said, is a "young man's game."

British Planes Foil Attack By Nazi Bombers

Civilians In Southeastern Scotland Rush To Raid Shelters As Pursuit Planes Route Invaders; French And German Scout Patrols In Clashes.

(By Associated Press)

EDINBURGH, Scotland—Two air raid warnings were sounded and "precautionary measures" were taken against the threat of Nazi bombing planes over the important Firth of Forth today, but the air ministry said no bombs were reported dropped.

An air raid warning also was given in the south of England later in the day, but within eight minutes the all-clear signal was sounded.

The Press association said it was believed the south of England warning was given in error. Only one or two sirens sounded and they were heard over a small area. No aircraft were seen, the Press association said.

The phrase "precautionary measures" clearly referred to the defending British aircraft which went aloft.

The warnings were fairly general over a broad area of southeastern Scotland. Four rapid bursts of anti-aircraft fire were heard in Edinburgh before the air raid sirens were sounded.

A third warning was given in one section, it was understood, to remedy the fact that in this particular part of the countryside a mechanical fault had led to premature sounding of an all-clear signal.

The Nazi invaders flew at extremely high altitudes and defending aircraft apparently took up the pursuit so rapidly that no bombs were dropped in populated centers.

Within 30 minutes, however, an all-clear signal was given in part of the area which had been put on the alert and by noon the alarm had been lifted throughout the region.

Paris Prepares for Raids By Bombers.

PARIS—(INS)—Increasing reconnaissance activity on the western front, particularly east of the Moselle river, was reported from the battle zone today.

At some points, it was stated, the Germans have been sending out patrols amounting to as much as a full company of men, and they have been met with sharp bursts from French artillery batteries.

That the war for the present has bogged down in mud to little more than these patrol activities was made clear by this morning's official communique, No. 93, which stated:

"All was quiet during the night. The weather was rainy. There was patrol activity on both sides."

Meanwhile, evidently in the belief that the Germans may launch a sudden aerial attack against Paris, the French capital for the first time since the war began went under a complete blackout.

Not even the dimmest street lamps, which previously had cast an unearthly, subdued glow on the streets, were lighted and the entire city was shrouded in pitch darkness.

TRIUMPH: Turkish Pact Blow To Nazis, Strong Aid For Allies

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(U.P.)—Adolf Hitler was reported today to have called the Nazi ambassadors to Italy, Turkey and Soviet Russia to Berlin for conferences on Germany's next maneuver in the light of Turkey's "unneutral" action in signing a mutual aid pact with the Allied powers.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

The signing of the momentous Anglo-French-Turkish mutual aid pact is hailed in the Allied capitals at a great victory over Germany, being calculated to assure them domination of the vital eastern Mediterranean area.

Berlin naturally declines to subscribe to this view, but the German political world is called stunned.

Neutral observers generally agree that the pact on the face of it represents a powerful Allied gain, but the agreement is so far reaching that the full implications must await developments.

The effect on Italy is being closely watched. The Italian press has adopted an attitude of indifference, pending a chance to study the situation.

That there can be no real indifference to a matter which so deeply affects Italian interests in the Mediterranean is obvious. Foreign diplomats in Rome express the belief that Italy will take no action, but will continue her neutrality.

Should this prove to be the case indefinitely, it would mean that Germany had lost the hope of any active assistance from her ally. The threat of Italian military intervention on Germany's side has been held out by Nazidom recently.

Coincident with this striking Turkish-Allied move, the Nazis ap-

LIMITS: Roosevelt Sets Up Variable Sea Patrol Boundaries

(By Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt took the position today that the limits of United States' territorial waters are flexible, varying from three to hundreds of miles, depending on the circumstances under which the limits are created.

In the case of belligerent submarines, which have been barred from American ports or territorial waters, the president said at a press conference that the limit of such waters was three miles.

In the case of rum runners in prohibition days, he said it was 150 miles.

In the case of the neutrality patrol, he added, the limit is farther out, roughly within the safety zone laid down at the recent Panama conference of 21 American republics. That zones extends at least 300 miles out.

But in any event, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, the territorial limits are in accordance with specific cases involving safety and neutrality.

The president did not answer directly a question whether there was any possibility of placing restructions on surface ships similar to those imposed on submarines.

He said he did not think the two were analogous—that it was like trying to add apples and pears, which were different things.

Another question sought to determine whether any special orders had been issued to the navy or coast guard for enforcement of the restrictions on submarines.

The president said that he did not know, but that he imagined copies of the proclamation setting up the restrictions had been sent to the navy, coast guard and also to the army.

Newcomer Tracy Joins Sunday Comic List

YES CHIEF, WHEN WE CAME INTO EXISTENCE IN OCT. '31 THERE WASN'T ANOTHER DETECTIVE STRIP — WE WENT AFTER THE GANGSTERS SINGLE HANDED FOR OVER TWO YEARS.

Adventures of Detective to Be Related to Readers Seven Days a Week.

Dick Tracy, comic strip detective, has made so many new friends in Mansfield since he joined The News-Journal's family of cartoon characters we have decided to put him in the eight-page section of colored comics which will appear in the first Sunday edition of The News-Journal Oct. 29.

It's no wonder Dick and his pals, Junior and Pat, are popular—they solve the toughest crimes in the book, have so many thrilling adventures and are so technically perfect.

In fact, Edgar Hoover, head of the G-men, told Chester Gould, creator of the strip, his work was doing a lot to expose different kinds of "rackets."

After we begin publishing our Sunday edition you can follow Dick's adventures every day in the week. Right now, you know, Tracy and his friends are on the trail of a band of fur thieves.

AS TO OUR TOWN—WE HAVE ONLY BEGUN! — WE NOT ONLY SOLVE EACH CRIMINAL PROBLEM AS WE COME TO IT— BUT WE BEFORE THE CRIMINAL AND THE CRIMINAL METHODS!

QUENCHES FIRE

VARNVILLE, S. C.— (U.P.) —A fire in a small grocery here was extinguished when soda pop bottles were heated by the blaze, the tops popped off and the liquid squirted out. The first thing the owner knew of the blaze was the next morning when he opened the store, found the burned place and the floor wet with soda pop.

Wouldn't Take Anything For Grand Relief "Vendol" Gave

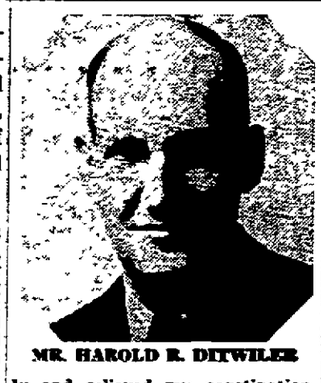
Mansfield Resident Was Constipated and Kidneys Needed a Diuretic, which Caused Pains in Back, Limbs, Neck, and Shoulders. Tells of Wonderful Relief Vendol Gave.

Mr. Harold R. Ditwiler, of 63 North Weldon Ave., Mansfield, gave his public endorsement for Vendol for the purpose of letting others who may be suffering from the same causes know what will relieve them. Mr. Ditwiler will gladly tell anyone who calls in person all about what this splendid medicine did. Here is his statement as given the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store a few days ago. He says:

"For over a year I had suffered almost daily from constipation and sluggish kidney action and these troubles kept me aching almost all over my body, but especially across the small of my back and down through my limbs and also my neck, shoulders, and arms ached quite often. When I bent over felt like my back would break.

"In addition, my nerves felt shaky and I seldom enjoyed a peaceful night's rest because of this constipation and need of a diuretic to my kidneys.

"So many people were prasing Vendol that I began taking it, and truly it seemed it was made especially for me, because it soon acted so thoroughly and pleasantly and relieved my constipation, that my aches and pains gradually passed off and today I'm feeling better than in a long time.



MR. HAROLD R. DITWILER

"I'm happy to recommend Vendol, because I found it an excellent medicine.

It is plain, honest statements like the above from people living right here in our home town, that tell the story of Vendol and how it acts to relieve many outward symptoms which are really due to constipation and need of a diuretic to the kidneys. So, if you need a reliable medicine, get Vendol at once.

Why not do what thousands right here at home have done; that is, give Vendol a chance to help you. Come to Central Drug Store, Corner Main and Fourth Streets, and let the Vendol Man tell you all about this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine. All druggists sell it.—Adv.

—Advice—

He Refuses To Come In House

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a certain young man for a few months now, but I can't persuade him to come into the house. When he has a date with me, he insists that I meet him in front of the house, and then we go for a walk, to the movie, or to a band concert.

I had one quarrel with him on account of this, but we made up again and he apologized. But when I ask him to come and ring the doorbell and get me, he still insists that I meet him in front of the house. My folks have nothing against him; in fact my mother objects seriously to my meeting him outside. What would you advise, under the circumstances?

ALICE

I suggest that you explain to your boy friend that your mother objects to you meeting him on the outside, and that he really must come to the door and call for you in the proper way. I can't imagine why he objects to doing this, inasmuch as your people are willing to have you go out with him. He may be a little bashful, and if he does come in, I suggest you do not bring the entire family in for introduction at the same time. Let your mother be the first one to meet him.

Different Recipes For Fish

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

New reports from the Bureau of Fisheries and the Fishery Council of the Middle Atlantic Area are encouraging. We learn that fish is appearing more and more on the home menu and that fish restaurants report increased patronage. This is all to the good, for fish, while low in calorific content, are chuckful of vitamins, proteins and minerals. If you want to serve fish a different way, here are some swell recipes.

Is the silvery mackerel your favorite fish? Then broil a whole split mackerel or fillets. Melt two tablespoons butter, add salt and one teaspoon finely-chopped mint. Pour over broiled fish. Leave in oven one minute with the door open. Serve at once.

For haddock in celery sauce, boil the haddock in fish stock. Serve with celery sauce. For this cook diced celery in water to cover until tender. Drain. To the water add equal amount milk. To each cup liquid use two tablespoons butter and two tablespoons flour. Melt butter. Add flour. When boiling, add milk slowly. Cook. Season with salt and pepper. Add cooked celery. Pour sauce over fish. Garnish with chopped celery leaves.

Fish a la King.

Try Fish a la King at that next supper party! Melt three tablespoons butter and stir in three tablespoons flour. When boiling, slowly add two cups milk, stirring constantly. When thickened, add one chopped pimento, one-half cup chopped mushrooms and one-half cup diced celery. Add two tablespoons lemon juice to two cups cooked fish, flaked. Add to sauce. Season with salt, paprika and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg. Just before serving add one beaten egg to enrich and bind the mixture. Do not over-cook.

Salmon with Egg Sauce is made by cooking the fish in fish stock. (Stock is water with salt, vinegar or lemon juice added to make fish firm and white: to give flavor, onions, soup greens, carrots, bayleaf and peppercorns are added to the water). Cook eight minutes per pound. Serve with white sauce that has one hard-boiled chopped egg added for each cup of sauce used. Hollandaise, shrimp, lobster, oysters and caper sauce are other tasty combinations.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

The code was a baffling one in parts. It was one of the variety where part of the language is understandable, and then, just before anything really important can be gleaned, unintelligible jargon is used.

That it was a private code, made up for use between the two conspirators alone, I soon deduced, and therefore I gave up any hope of learning much about it. But toward the end there were oft-repeated phrases, together with the expression "the canary," which I suspected meant "the Dicky-bird," out of which I was finally able to make something coherent.

"Can't you find the canary?" one sentence ran.

"No. I've contacted all the cages."

"Maybe he's looking for his mate."

The woman had uttered an ugly oath at that, and the man had told her to "pipe down" and quit her foolishness over "the canary" as it never would get her anywhere. The implication in that made me shiver a bit, but I kept on working, and was finally justified in believing that I held a few vital bits of knowledge in my hands.

The conspirators were worried about not being able to find Dicky.

They had debated whether it would be worthwhile to call the magazine. The woman had decided that they would go to other places they knew of, and if they could not find him at any of them, then they would call up the magazine. And if everything else failed, one of them would try to find out if Dicky had gone to the hotel.

When I had finished going over my notes, one impression stood out. They did not wish to see Dicky until the following night, but they did want to know definitely where he was and what he was doing.

I put my notes back on the table and drew a deep breath, nerving myself to calm action. There were things which I must do, information I must get, if possible, and I needed all my faculties clear, calm and in working order.

With my pulses pounding I walked to the telephone, took it down and spoke to the operator.

"Will you please ask Mr. Milner, and also the man who came with me tonight, who is waiting in the lobby, to come up to my apartment at once?" I said, and the question was something more than a request.

"I'll tell them at once," the operator said, and in a few minutes I heard the elevator stop at my floor. There followed a knock upon my door, and I opened it at once, but only to the length of the night chain which I had put on the door as soon as I had come into the room.

Mr. Milner and the guard were standing outside, and I immediately removed the night chain and bade them enter.

"What can I do for you, Mrs. Graham?" Mr. Milner asked.

"Just this," I said. "I have information that one or two people will try to see Mr. Graham or myself tonight or, failing that, try to talk to us. I want you to give orders that anyone inquiring for either of us—except a long distance inquiry from Mr. Veritzen at Southhampton, or my own family at Sag Harbor—is to be told that neither of us is here, that we have not been here today, and that you have no idea when we intend to be here. Can you do that?"

"Of course." The manager bowed from the waist, and Thompson, the guard, nodded comprehendingly.

"Thank you," I returned. "One thing more. There are only two friends who know where my husband and I are, and who may call us tonight. Will you please wait while I call them, and give them a name for which they are to ask. Then you will know it is all right to let me talk to them."

I turned to the telephone, without waiting for an answer, and gave the number of my father's apartment, the public number. Gus almost immediately answered, and I asked him to get Mrs. Underwood to the telephone at once.

"Lillian," I said tensely when she had come to the telephone, "I cannot tell you what this is all about, but if you telephone me here tonight, ask for Mrs. Morris, and say Mrs. Underwood is calling. The hotel operator will understand, but do not use my name, for if you do, they will not let you talk to me."

BRINGS HOME TROUT

SPOKANE, Wash.—(U.P.)—Nine-year-old Homer Campbell baited a small hook with a piece of bacon and tossed his line—a piece of string—over the side of a boat in Liberty lake. A minute later he hauled out a four-pound rainbow trout.

Substantial Sandwich Fillings

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

FOR THAT substantial sandwich included in a lunchbox or picnic basket, change from the expected with the fillings suggested here today.

Meat Loaf is delicious if well prepared. Get together one and one-half pounds veal (ground), one pound beef (ground), three-fourths pound pork (ground), one egg, one and one-half teaspoons celery salt, one and one-half teaspoons poultry seasoning, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup milk and one tablespoon prepared mustard. Mix veal, beef and pork. Beat egg lightly and add to remaining ingredients. Mix well into the meat and form a loaf. Spread outside with prepared mustard and cover with a can of tomato puree. Bake in a 400° F. oven for one hour, basting occasionally. Good hot or cold.

Shrimp and celery filling is made with two cups shrimps, three-fourth cup capers, one-fourth-cup mayonnaise, one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Use fresh, cooked or canned shrimp and mince fine. Mix with other ingredients and season with salt and paprika. Spread on slices of wholewheat bread and trim crusts.

For jelly sandwiches keep a jar of a substantial mixture on hand. Grape-orange jelly is made with four pounds Concord grapes, one pound English walnuts, one pound seeded raisins, three pounds granulated sugar, two whole oranges (seeded and diced), three level teaspoons dried mint, seeds from eight cardamon capsules and four blades mace. Skin grapes, saving skins and placing pulp in preserving kettle. Cook pulps 15 minutes, then strain out seeds. Add grape skins, nut meats, raisins, oranges, spices and sugar. Boil for one hour to one and one-half hours or until of jam consistency. After removing from fire, add one-half bottle fruit pectin.

For an unique sandwich filling add one-half teaspoon cinnamon to one cup of peach pulp and spread on buttered wholewheat bread.

Chicken Salad Sandwich is that something special that we all relish. And here is a recipe. Use two cups diced chicken, one cup diced celery, one-half cup diced pineapple, one-third cup mayonnaise, one-half teapspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Combine chicken, celery, pineapple and sweet pickle. Mix seasonings with mayonnaise. Fold into chicken mixture, blend thoroughly. Wrap sandwiches in waxed paper.

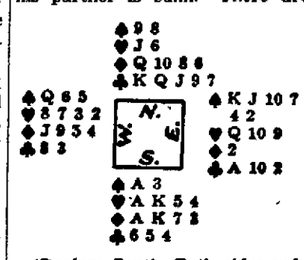
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU NEED SOME FAITH

A player who has no faith in his partner is sunk. There are times when dependence upon the man across the table is indispensible for your chance of success. Nowhere is this more important than when discarding on the declarer's suit at a No Trump contract. In a tight spot, you must count on your partner to do some of the work.



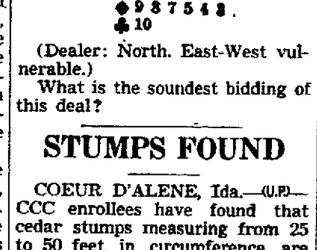
(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Very bad smart-alecky bidding got South into 3-No Trumps here, although a minor game was easy. It went, 1-Club by South, 2-Clubs by North, 2-Spades by East, 2-No Trumps by South and 3-No Trunmps by North.

South took the second spade and ran four diamonds. East had to discard three times. He picked one club and two spades, not liking to let go of his heart stopper. When he finally won with the club A, he had only three spades left to run, so declarer made game. Had he, instead, discarded one club and two hearts, counting on his partner for heart defense, he would have set the contract two tricks.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, October 21.

A DIFFICULT day, with much of turbulence, turmoil and misunderstanding, is indicated by the auguries of ruling planets. This untoward condition prevails in connection with launching new programs and objectives, in commercial and literary pursuits as well as in social, domestic and emotional relations. And there are angles of treachery and duplicity, as well as open hostility and friction. To secure harmony and profit, use restraint and skill.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year which has possibilities of friction, futility and defeat unless they use discretion, prudence and self-restraint. There are threats of quarrels, turbulence and impetuosity in all business, social and intimate relations, which may suffer inharmony and unhappiness unless rigidly controlled. Be slow with tongue and pen.

A child born on this day may be energetic and aggressive, fiery, passionate, impetuous and wilful. It should be given early discipline and training if its lively energies and quick resources are to bear fruit.

LONG SERVICE

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—(U.P.)—The average motorist in New South Wales makes his car do for 9¾ years and thereby, believes the department of road transport, increases accidents. Observation suggests that the age of the vehicles explains what is the major source of accidents—the number of slow drivers on the road.

STUMPS FOUND

COEUR D'ALENE, Ida.—(U.P.)—CCC enrollees have found that cedar stumps measuring from 25 to 50 feet in circumference are common in the valley of the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene river.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

ROUTINE ACTIVITIES CONDUCTED THURSDAY

Circles of First Methodist Church Hear Talks on District Session; Unification Topic For Fifth Unit.

THE MAJORITY of the women of the First Methodist church were busy yesterday with circle meetings held in the homes of various members. Mrs. W. C. Bolling, 335 South Diamond street, entertained members of the first circle. Mrs. John Shook led the devotions, and Mrs. Harold Connor and Mrs. Arthur Connor were the associate hostesses.

Members will meet again Nov. 16 at the home of Mrs. V. D. Coe, 35 Brickman avenue. There were 21 members present Thursday.

* * *

There were 20 women in attendance at the meeting of Circle Three at the home of Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth on North Mulberry street. Mrs. Winifred Johnson, Mrs. F. W. Swartz and Mrs. Harold Sargant were the associate hostesses. Miss Bessie Bell led the devotions, and Mrs. Otis Ward, president, told of the district meeting which was held in Ashland recently.

A covered-dish dinner will be served to the members Nov. 16 at the home of Mrs. W. C. Mansfield, Sturges avenue.

Mrs. Frank Hauserman and Mrs. Virgil Hess were the associate hostesses yesterday when Mrs. George Hout, 63 Sturges avenue, entertained. Mrs. Harold Boals led the 17 present in devotions, and Mrs. D. L. Divelbiss conducted the business. The next meeting will be Nov. 16 at the home of Mrs. L. L. Wolf, 628 Scholl road.

* * *

There were 13 members and one guest of Circle Five in attendance at a meeting at the home of Mrs. E. G. Corwin, 138 West Second street. Mrs. Harvey Imhoff and Mrs. Harry Davis were the associate hostesses.

Mrs. Karl Kunert read the devotions, and Mrs. H. W. Peterson was the speaker. Her subject was "Woman's Work Under the Unification of the Church." Mrs. William Gugler will have the meeting of Nov. 16 at her home on North Mulberry street.

Hobo Party Held By St. Paul Club Thursday Night

A "hobo party" was an event of yesterday evening for the St. Paul Thursday Nighters in the parlors of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Supper was served to the group of 47 'hobos' at 6:30 o'clock, and the parlors were decorated with Halloween appointments and lighted by lanterns and candles.

Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Joseph Morganstern and Lawrence Chamberlain. Following group singing, "hobo tour" prizes were won by Miss Helen Boyer and Mr. Chamberlain. The climax of the evening occurred when each "hobo" was required to attire himself in the garb contained in a "poke handout." Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thatcher were in charge of arrangements for the affair.

The next meeting will be a covered-dish supper at 6:30 p. m. on Nov. 16 in the church parlors. The Misses Bertene Sawyer, Katherine Miller, Barbara Lehman and Ellen Beach will be hostesses at that time.

Madonna Harmon, John Oswalt To Wed In November

Miss Madonna Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Harmon, R. D. 4, revealed her approaching marriage to John Oswalt, Lucas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Oswalt last night at a party given by her mother and attended by 30 friends and neighbors. The ceremony will be performed at 2:30 p. m. at the First Lutheran church here on Nov. 5.

The party last night was a kitchen shower, and orange and black appointments were used when Mrs. Harmon served the luncheon. Games were played, and Mrs. Boyd Shannon and Mrs. Dale Elliot were given the prizes.

Miss Harmon is a graduate of Madison high school, and is employed at the Kresge company here. Mr. Oswalt was graduated from Lucas high school and is now employed at the Humphreys Manufacturing company.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellison Feted By Sisterhood

Although Mr. and Mrs. David Ellison, 13 Gettings place, won't celebrate their silver wedding anniversary until Nov. 22, friends of theirs surprised them with a party this week. Members of the B'Nai Jacob sisterhood entertained at the Temple on West Second street for Mr. and Mrs. Ellison.

There were 40 guests at the social affair, and refreshments were served by the sisterhood at flower decorated tables. A gift of silver was presented to Mrs. Ellison.

* * *

HAVE SESSION.

Ronald Kern, South Main street, was host to the Y. P. M. C. of the South Main Street Evangelical and Reformed church Wednesday when 16 members and 10 guests attended. Halloween appointments, and games were featured. Olive Jean Hughes conducted the meeting and led the study. The next meeting will be Nov. 15 with Robert Witmer, Davis road.

* * *

ANNIVERSARY PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. John Etzel, 55 Chilton avenue, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary yesterday evening with an informal party at the German hall on East Fourth street. There were 75 guests in attendance, and dancing was the diversion of the evening. Later a buffet luncheon was served, and the honored couple received numerous silver gifts from the guests.

* * *

ENTERTAINS CLUB.

Mrs. John Palmer, south of Ontario, entertained 15 members and three guests of the Happityme club yesterday at her home. The afternoon was spent socially, and refreshments were served. Mrs. H. M. Cook, Shelby road, will entertain Nov. 16. Prizes were won by Mrs. Edna Bender, Mrs. Clara Stringer, Mrs. Alice Arter and Mrs. Bertha Brokaw.

Story League Holds Initial Autumn Session

The first meeting of the season for the Mansfield Story Telling league was a guest party yesterday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Maffet on Scholl road. The Misses Roselyne Zychick, Edith Moore, Edith Stuckey, Grace Parks, Gertrude Sluterbeck and Mrs. Eleanor Smith were the guests.

The affair was a dessert-bridge and Chinese checker party. The dessert course was served at small tables centered with miniature bouquets of fall flowers and decorated with Halloween appointments. Prizes in the games were won by Miss Helen Hartmann and Miss Stuckey.

The hostess, who is president of the league, was in charge of a short business session. Miss Ann Verba, program chairman, gave a resume of the club's program for the coming year. The group will meet again on Nov. 2 at the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Tinkey Feted At Birthday Party

Mrs. Edward Tinkey, 200 Boling road, was feted yesterday in celebration of her birthday when members of the Do-Be-There club entertained at her home with a surprise covered-dish dinner. The table was centered with a bouquet of snapdragons and pompons, the gift of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Hedges.

A handkerchief shower and a number of personal gifts were presented to the honoree. The afternoon was spent socially with Mrs. Ray Kline and Mrs. Frank Wise, another daughter of the guest of honor, playing piano and violin numbers. Mrs. Flossie Tinkey, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Tinkey, was also a guest.

Shelby Girl Gives Shower for Bride-Elect

Miss Martha Jane McClane, Mansfield avenue, Shelby, entertained 14 young women from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company last night in honor of Miss Alice McNamara, bride-elect of Andrew Mott. Yellow and white decorations were used on the buffet table which was marked with 16 lighted yellow tapers and bowls of yellow chrysanthemums.

The honoree poured and Mrs. John McNamara, her mother, served cake. Bridge winners were the Misses Catherine Pfeifer, Naomi Croskey and Rachel Secrist. They gave their awards to Miss McNamara who was also the recipient of a shower of bathroom gifts.

Plaids Favored Fall Attire

Plaids play to big applause on the sports clothes stage. Here's a spectator sports frock that is going lots of places such as the country club and football games. It is made of sheer wool plaided in gray, blue and rose and worn with silver accents—link necklace, band bracelet and crystal centered shoulder pin.

Ticket Sale, Coming Program Planned By Crescendo Club

JIMMY THOMAS, Ruth Vrbanac, and Walter Simon assisted Patty Hieber last night when she entertained 36 members of the Crescendo club at her home on R. D. 1. During the business meeting arrangements were made for the ticket sale for the concert to be given at the high school auditorium Nov. 14 by Kirk Ridge.

The music included the playing of "Dresden Shepherdess" by the Hayden trio composed of Ann Jeannette Klinger, and Joe and Frank Pival. Ruth Vrbanac played "Scherzo in E Minor" by Mendelssohn. Miss Marget Tinsley was guest speaker, and she talked on "Correlation of History and Music." She pointed out that to date there has been no great America music, and that great musicians do not make great national music, because great national music is written at the time of stress, and nobody can predict a crisis.

She concluded by playing national war songs on the flute. Refreshments were served, and plans were made for the Nov. 16 reciprocity meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The program will be given by Bellville, Upper Sandusky and Ashland clubs, and friends and relatives of club members will be guests at this time.

Next Month Will Witness Many Nuptial Events

Looking ahead to November, society has a number of nuptial events to start a fashionable winter season. Each day brings news of more marriages to come. The first of the month will be the wedding of Miss Alice McNamara and Andrew Mott at St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. Nov. 4. The same day Miss Mildred McElvain and William Robert Ferris will wed at the bride-elect's home.

Nov. 18 the St. Rose's Lutheran church in Lima will be the scene of the marriage of Miss Bettybelle Gilmore of that city and John F. Daley, jr., of Mansfield.

Two other November marriages will be that of Miss Marjorie Hout and Virgil Bisel at the Grace Gospel Tabernacle Nov. 5 at 3 p. m. and Miss Madonna Harmon and John Oswalt at the First Lutheran church at 2:30 p. m. on the same date.

Activities of Social Clubs

Guests at the meeting of the We club at the home of Mrs. Philip Smith, Home avenue, yesterday were Mrs. Lowell Morgan and Mrs. Glenn Pore. After the short business meeting cards were in play at three tables, and prizes were presented to the guests and to Mrs. Howard Markley and Mrs. O. M. Garver.

A two-course luncheon was served at a table decorated with chrysanthemums. The next meeting will be Nov. 9 with Mrs. George Berg, South Foster street.

* * *

Hearts were played at two tables yesterday when Mrs. James Villella, West Sixth street, entertained members of the Italian Social club. Mrs. James Villella and Mrs. Ben Saprano won prizes, and Mrs. James Fileppelli was welcomed into membership.

Mrs. Charles Smith and Miss Genevieve Fileppilli were guests. Halloween appointments were used on the luncheon table. The next meeting will be Nov. 2 with Miss Ann deGregoria, Johns avenue.

* * *

Halloween appointments were used by Miss Virginia Fox, 336 West Fifth street, yesterday when she entertained members of the Cardettes club at her home. Prizes were won by Miss Margaret Harrold and Miss Mary Ellen Bechtel. Miss Bechtel will entertain at her home, 271 West Fourth street, Nov. 2.

* * *

Miss Martha Flohr, Home avenue, was hostess last night to members of the Soiree club. Prizes went to the Misses Jane Cleland and Elizabeth Frisch, and Miss Mary Taylor was a guest. Halloween appointments were featured for the refreshment table. Miss Cleland will entertain at her home on Wayne street Nov. 16.

THIS seems to be the day for news of college students, vacationing Mansfielders and former residents returned to the city. . . . Word from down Wittenberg way says that some more of our freshmen there have been pledged to Greek letter groups—Mary Bair (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bair) is now wearing an Alpha Xi Delta pledge pin, and Paul Cropper, jr., is sporting the badge of Beta Theta Pi. . . . Paul, you know, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cropper, sr.

An outstanding student at Marygrove college in Detroit, Mich., last year was Mary Jane Kelley—and she's right up there among the leaders again this, her senior year. . . . She has been named a member of the decoration committee for the annual Tower dance, which is being held at the school on Nov. 10. . . . And then too, she's especially busy this week with work on the invitation committee for the senior "at home"—an event of this afternoon. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelley are Jane's parents.

Warmer climes have already beckoned a number of Mansfielders. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Ford left this week to drive to Coral Gables, Fla., where they plan to stay for most of the winter. . . . And that "perfect" state on the west coast—California—has three eager visitors in June Ford, Esther Pfaff and Lucille Antrican, who are taking a two months' vacation there by motor.

She's a junior at Northwestern university in Evanston, Ill., this year and is having the thrill of living in her sorority (Chi Omega) house for the first time. . . . But probably more exciting still, she writes, is the fact that one of her sorority sisters and classmates is being married this month—and the entire chapter plans to attend the wedding "en masse."

Her many Mansfield friends will be happy to know that Mrs. Otto Bader (who, no doubt, is better remembered as Ida Mae Dinges) has come east from her home in Los Angeles, Cal., for a visit with friends and relatives. She's staying with her sister, Mrs. Rolla Huffman, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Bertha McLaughlin. . . . She plans to stay until Thanksgiving and take a trip to Detroit before returning home.

State Professor To Show Movies Before A. A. U. W.

Announcement was just made this morning by Miss Margaret Tinsley of plans for the Nov. 7 meeting of the American Association of University Women which will be held at the Women's Club. Dr. Wallace R. Brode, professor of organic chemistry at Ohio State university, will show movies of Russia which he took while a member of the Harvard Eclipse expedition.

He is a graduate of Whitman college at Walla Walla, Wash. and received his doctorate at the University of Illinois. Later he studied on a Guggenheim fellowship in Germany. Dr. Brode is one of triplets, all three of whom are scientists. He has another brother who is a biologist, and his father is a professor at Whitman.

Dr. Brode is a spectroscopist, and wrote one of the first textbooks on spectroscopy. Members of the Current Problems study group are in charge of the program, and members of Group three will be hostesses at the dinner meeting.

Take Dancing Lessons to Remedy Awkwardness.

NATICK, Mass.—(AP)—They didn't have football practice at the high school yesterday. The high school girls said they thought the gridders were too awkward and suggested a remedy. Coach Henry Plausse agreed. So they had dancing lessons in the school gym instead of football practice.

80,000 to See Cleveland Tilt

Navy to Go Into Game Weakened By Loss of Wood; Notre Dame Reaches Scene of Battle.

By CHARLES P. McMAHON

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame and the Navy Middies from Annapolis, leading a vanguard of nearly 80,000 people, invaded Cleveland today and began work-outs for their classic gridiron clash tomorrow at municipal stadium.

Notre Dame's squad of 35 players, accompanied by coaches, trainers and managers, arrived early, attended mass at St. John's cathedral and then limbered up at the stadium, Navy's squad arrived later.

The big Irish team, aided by their "magic kickers," ruled a pre-game favorite over the Middies, who have defeated William and Mary and Virginia by large scores, and then played a scoreless tie with Dartmouth.

Notre Dame, also undefeated, has won from Purdue, Georgia Tech and Southern Methodist by a net margin of seven points due to the peerless kicking toes of their backs.

* * *

The game will be the third Cleveland meeting between the two teams and the 13th in their series. The Irish have won nine of 12 games played with Navy, but they have split the last six. Notre Dame won, 12 to 0, in Cleveland in 1932, and Navy, spurred by the great Buzz Borries turned in a notable upset here in 1934 by defeating the Irish, 10 to 6.

* * *

The three "S's"—Bob Saggau, Benny Sheridan and Harry Stevenson—noted as triple-threat left halfbacks, all appeared in fine condition and helped by Bob McGannon were in excellent shape to lead the spearhead of the Notre Dame formations. Lou Zontini, the workhorse of the squad at right half, was expected to start. Two plunging threats, Fullbacks Joe Thesing and Milt Piepul, added their burly bodies to the backfield.

Steve Sitko, the starting Notre Dame quarterback, is one of the outstanding blockers of the Irish team, which is noted for its precision execution of block plays.

The Middies boast one of their largest lines in years with a return to their former ground power gaining.

The Middies, however, were more or less crippled in the backfield with the loss of Emmet Wood, their triple-threat back, who probably will be sitting on the bench due to injuries.

The Middies' line is big and fast and tips the scales at almost an average 200 pounds from end to end.

* * *

Johnny Kelleher, the Lorain, O., boy whose precise place-kicking brought the margin of victory in two of the Irish games, promised to turn the tide with his goal-kicking specialty if the occasion and the spot calls for him.

* * *

Weatherman Ralph C. Mize promised "no rain and normal temperature" for tomorrow's tilt.

BLAMED—Most of the blame for the recent defeat of the Reds by the Yankees is being blamed on the failure to have New York scouted. The trouble this year was that the Cincinnati pitchers didn't know where to throw to the Yankee batters and the Reds' infield and outfield didn't know where to play for them.

* * *

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

Ross Bradford outpointed Ray Newton on Eddie Joseph's fistic card at Armory, and Jack Ladd shaded Pete Kline in curtain raiser.... Madison walloped Bellville, 33 to 6, and Ashland sprung a surprise by defeating Bucyrus, 15 to 14, the winning points coming on a safety in the final period.

* * *

WOW!—We know of a halfback who is described as having "a change of pace as deceptive as a woman driver."

* * *

RIGHT—Northwestern's coach, Lynn Waldorf, says: "We're not as good on green grass as we are on white paper."

* * *

TOUGH—Bucky Walters was used twice as a relief pitcher during the regular season and once in the World series . . . and lost all three games.

* * *

HEADLINE—"Turks ready to mobolize." . . . perhaps as a protest against observing Thanksgiving earlier, Nixson Denton quips.

* * *

THREE TILTS — New York City will be the scene of three top-notch grid games Saturday . . . Columbia vs. Princeton, Auburn vs. Manhattan, N. Y. U. vs Carnegie Tech.

RAH, RAH!—Chicago U. owns a victory at this point of the season and twice has crossed an opponent's goal line. Northwestern has accomplished neither feat.

* * *

TODAY'S UNPLEASANT THOUGHT—Football coaches whose teams have yet to play Massillon.

* * *

SOUGHT—The Green Bay Packers are still trying to get Bucyrus' Bob Monnett to change his mind about retirement. But Bob says he's through with pro football and the Packers are now trying to fill the passing post with Jimmy Lawrence, ex-Tiffin Mudhen pilot.

Reserves Ready for Sylvania

Soph-Filled Lineup Has Brilliant Record to Defend at Stadium Saturday.

WITH a lineup filled with sophomores, the Mansfield high reserves will attempt to protect a record marred by only one defeat at Stadium field at 2 p. m. Saturday when they face the Sylvania varsity.

Saturday's assignment stacks up as one of the toughest on the junior Tyger's schedule, and it is likely that they will be forced to the limit to triumph.

* * *

The game will also mark the third appearance of the Tygers' understudies this week. They defeated the Marion and Shelby reserve teams earlier this week.

* * *

The only defeat suffered by the young Tygers this year came in a game with the Canton Timken varsity. Their victories were scored over the two Massillon junior high clubs, Alliance, Shelby and Marion.

In a game played several weeks ago, the sophomore team and Marion reserves battled to a scoreless tie in a sea of mud.

* * *

The Mansfield lineup will probably consist of Krapp and Winbigler, ends; Kauffman and Weber, tackles; Smith and Romano, guards; Dietzel, center, with Doolittle, Templeton, Jones and Brandt filling the backfield posts.

* * *

The Mansfield varsity, not scheduled Saturday, was to play a practice game against the Kenyon college freshmen in Gambier today. The Tygers will witness the Mt. Vernon-Shelby game tonight.

ARMSTRONG PUTS TITLE ON BLOCK IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE — (AP) — Hammering Henry Armstrong, the fightin'est champion in the business, puts his welterweight crown on the chopping block tonight against Richie Fontaine of Missoula, Mont.

They're scheduled for 15 rounds at the civic auditorium, which has a 9,000 seating capacity.

DeCorrevont Blames Himself for Showing.

EVANSTON, Ill.—(U.P.) — Bill De Correvont, highly-publicized sophomore halfback at Northwestern, blamed himself today for the "ragged" blocking of the Wildcats at Ohio State Saturday. He denied the linemen were lying down on the job as charged by a columnist in the student newspaper, the Daily Northwestern.

"The blocking may have looked bad on some of those plays but it was my fault," De Correvont said. "Sometimes I missed my hole in the line and didn't cut back properly."

COACH AL FENDRICK'S Madison Rams will attempt to balance their record on their home gridiron at 8 p. m. today.

The Rams, who have won two out of five games, face the St. Paul's gridders of Norwalk, and victory prospects are not exactly discouraging for the Madison pigskin toters.

* * *

However, Fendrick is not taking tonight's game lightly, and has attempted to convince his charges that Norwalk may be considerably tougher than anticipated.

* * *

The Madison squad is intact for the first time this season for tonight's game, Fendrick said, but he announced that a lineup consisting of probably 1940 starters will be in the game at the whistle.

Capt. Bill Heichel, Doug De Nero and other Madison seniors will see action, Fendrick stated, but their insertion will depend on the game developments.

Injured Frye May Be on Bench Tonight.

BOB FRYE, one of the state's leading touchdown makers, may not be in the lineup when the Crestline Onondagas attempt to register their sixth straight victory at Willard tonight.

The spectacular Crestline halfback suffered a pulled muscle in his groin in last week's victory over Tiffin Calvert. Coach Merle Huston said today.

Hutson stated that Frye may be able to start against Willard, but refused to state definitely.

The Crestline coach also labeled as "untrue" charges that Phil Ganni, Frye's brilliant backfield mate, is over-age and ineligible. The rumor was started in Tiffin after Calvert's defeat, but today A. A. Kramer, Calvert coach, denied that proof of Ganni's ineligibility had been discovered.

"Ganni was just too good for our kids," Kramer declared.

MEDWICK ON BLOCK

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Outfielder Joe Medwick, highest paid player on the St. Louis Cardinals roster, was on the trading block today according to President Sam Breadon. "I wouldn't hesitate to trade him," Breadon said, "as long as the deal would strengthen the Cards."

Ohio State's Aerial Weapons May Turn Tide Against Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(U.P.)—A free-wheeling gang of Ohio State gridders was to arrive in this football-mad town this afternoon for the first Buckeye football invasion of Minnesota since 1931.

The high-spirited Bucks meet Minnesota's Golden Gophers tomorrow afternoon in Memorial stadium as the climax of the Minnesota homecoming celebration.

* * *

The gay homecoming atmosphere with its unrepressed excitement made the visitors from another center of Gridiron Frezy feel right at home, but the Scarlet and gray Warriors will not forget for a moment the business at hand.

* * *

Upon arrival in adjacent St. Paul, the Bucks were to be hustled to the stadium, located between the Twin Cities, for limbering up and to familiarize themselves with the scene of battle.

Tomorrow's encounter will have loud repercussions in the Big Ten title race. Neither eleven is beaten in league play although the Gophers were tied by Purdue in their lone start while Ohio crushed Northwestern.

The game may develop into a test of power with Ohio's apparently greater speed and potentially more effective aerial weapons turning the tide.

Each team boasts a powerful line, averaging near the 200-pound mark. In two games, Ohio has allowed only 134 yards by rushing while smashing for 474 yards. Discounting its initial "breather" start against Arizona, Minnesota has yielded 333 yards and gained 413 by rushing in two games.

Coach Francis Schmidt feels confident the Ohio passing attack will click tomorrow after failing completely last week. The Northwestern game was the first time since Schmidt began coaching in 1915 that one of his teams has not completed a single pass.

Don Scott, Jack Graf and John Simione have been polishing their heaving technique behind better protection in practice this week with Frank Clair, Esco Sarkkinen, Jimmy Strausbaugh and Charley Anderson as the chief receivers.

The proven Ohio ground offensive again will rely on the speed of Strausbaugh and Dick Fisher and the drive of Scott, Jim Langhurst, Johnny Rabb and Frank Zadworney.

* * *

Minnesota possesses its usual driving type of offensive, powered by Fullback Marty Christiansen and Halfbacks George Franck, Hal Van Every, Bruce Smith and George Paffrath. Van Every is also a gifted passer.

* * *

"If we've got the defense we think we have we'll take 'em like we took those other fellows," explained Schmidt.

The Ohio party of 277 persons left Columbus last night and stayed overnight in Chicago. There were 50 in the official team and coaches group, 127 members of the Ohio band and the rest were loyal followers. Governor John W. Bricker and wife headed the supporting delegation.

Crisp, cool weather was forecast for the game.

Bowman Keeps Slate Clean

Hangs Up Fifth Straight Win In 'Tag' League.

Win counts 2 points.
Tie counts one point.

Coach John Bell's Bowman grade school gridsters registered their fifth straight victory to retain first place in the City Grade School "tag" football league at Simpson field yesterday.

Three pass interceptions, two by Floro and one by Heiser, gave Bowman three touchdowns and an 18 to 0 victory over Hedges. Heiser returned his interception 50 yards.

West Fifth remained in second place by defeating Bushnell, 19 to 0, at the Armory. Fay and Packer took passes from Burton to score two of the touchdowns. Lewis returned an interception 40 yards for the other touchdown. Burton passed to Fay for one of the points.

Western outpointed Prospect, 15 to 6, at Hedges field in one of the more interesting games of the day. Hahn scored twice for Western on end runs, and Rowe threw to Wagner for the Prospect score. A 20-yard run by Mercer gave Carpenter a 6 to 0 victory over Brinkerhoff at North park.

Supplies Sign Lorain Eleven For Game Here

The Lorain Pros will oppose the Automotive Supplies at Blue Goose field at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Business Manager Fred Rizzo announced today.

Although the game with the Lorain club has been pending since early in the week, the contract was not signed until yesterday, Rizzo said.

* * *

The Lorain club should be a good match for the undefeated Supplies, who have won five straight games. The weight average of the two teams are approximately the same, according to the roster supplied by the Lorain club.

* * *

Coach Earl McMullen has been working his squad extra time this week in preparation for the tilt, and expects his charges to show an improved brand of football against the Lorain eleven.

The Lorain lineup consists of former college and high school stars, Rizzo said.

Headline Ohio's Collegiate Card

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A Big Four clash here between Western Reserve and Baldwin-Wallace and an Ohio conference tussle in Kent pitting Kent State against Findlay top today's state college football card.

Three other contests are on the calendar, including Ohio university's invasion of Xavier, Detroit Tech's journey to Youngstown and Defiance's hop to Albion, Mich.

All the teams except Kent State have been defeated, and the Staters have a tie with Mount Union spotting their record. All except the Kent game will be played at night.

Possum Run Bowlers Hit 2839 In 'B' Loop

Fred McKinley Leads Golfers With 626 Series as Ringside, Rugs Retain First Place.

THE lowly Possum Run golfers came into their own on the bowling alleys last night when they teed off and collected 2839 pins to annex scoring laurels in the Commercial B league at the Meder lanes.

Driving out scores of 973, 947 and 919, the Possum Runners took three ball games from the Heilman Grocers.

Fred McKinley was the major menace in the Possum Run team's lineup. He counted a 626, high individual of the night, from games of 245, 224 and 157.

* * *

The Yuncker Sports were second high in scoring with a 2717 series, which was good for a clean sweep over the Southern Hotel. Andy Stash led the Sports with a 590 count. The three wins put the Sports in a three-way tie for third place.

* * *

The Ringside Cafe retained a share of first place with the Mansfield Rugs by taking two decisions from Ohio Public Service, while the Rugs were taking the same number from the Mansfield Printers.

In the other matches, the Kochheiser Sports won three games from the Shelby Cycles and the Satterlee Restaurants added two wins at the expense of the Mohican Chevrolets.

LIST RETREATS AS WAR GROUP LOSES FLAVOR

Leaders Down Fractions to Point as Traders Watch for New Clues.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market lost most of its war flavor today and leading issues retreated fractions to around a point.

Inclined to give ground were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Anaconda, duPont, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone and Sears Roebuck.

Resistant were Union Carbide, Montgomery Ward, General Foods and American Can.

With the European battlers evidently pulling their punches, speculative forces seemingly were more confused than ever and exhibited little desire to extend commitments on either side of the market.

Bonds and commodities were uneven and foreign securities markets no better than yesterday.

A constructive market note was sounded by Dunn & Bradstreet in a trade summary which described this week's retail spending throughout the country as registering a "strong upturn."

"Lower temperatures throughout the country," the review said, "and the general improvement in buying power were reflected in a sharp expansion of consumer purchases in almost all large shopping centers.

"Except for the weeks immediately preceding Christmas, the period was the best from the point of view of sales volumes that merchants had had in over two years. Wholesale markets felt the upswing mainly in reorder volume."

Makes Dramatic Attack on Repeal of Arms Embargo

JOHNSON SAYS SALE OF ARMS COURTS WAR

Veteran Senator Declares Hitler Won't Conquer Britain, France.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—In a setting heavy with drama, silver-haired Senator Hiram Johnson of California warned the senate today that repeal of the U. S. arms embargo would place the United States "in the shadow, walking down the bloody path to war."

One of the senators whom President Wilson described as the "little band of willful men" who prevented America's entrance into the League of Nations, Johnson, in solemn words, declared:

"Our paramount interest is in staying out of war and preserving our form of government, our economy and our standard of living.

"War would destroy them. Stay out, Americans."

As on the historic occasion of 20 years ago when he fought the Versailles treaty which would have taken the United States into the league, Johnson took the floor as co-leader with Senator Borah (R) Idaho—they have been called the "great isolationists"—of the senate forces fighting against repeal of the embargo.

Johnson rejected the "fears that totalitarian governments would come over to America" if aid were not extended to Great Britain and France through the lifting of the embargo.

The Californian said:

"Hitler will never conquer Europe. It has never been done by any one yet. Countless efforts have been made to establish (European) hegemony by force and none have succeeded. The closest approach to any was made by Napoleon and to compare Hitler to Napoleon is absurd."

Turning directly on the administration - sponsored neutrality legislation, Johnson told his colleagues two truths were "self-evident" in the battle for embargo repeal:

"1. That the repeal of the embargo favors the Allies.

"2. That such repeal accomplished after beginning of the war would be unneutral."

TAKE LESSONS

Ashland School Bus Drivers Will Learn First Aid.

ASHLAND—School bus drivers who have not already done so will be required to take a course in first aid. Courses will begin next Tuesday evening, it was announced today by Virgil B. Moffett, county school superintendent.

The school will be held according to the following schedule: at Ashland for the drivers of this city, Nankin, Montgomery and Perry townships.

At Hayesville, for the drivers from Hayesville, Perrysville, Jeromesville and any from Loudonville who have not taken the course.

At Nova, for drivers from Nova, Ruggles, Savannah, Sullivan and Polk. The schools are scheduled to start at 7 p. m.

6 SCOUTS GET PATROL STRIPES

Troop Stages Program at Meeting; Policeman to Talk Next week.

Patrol stripes were presented six Boy Scouts of Troop No. 9 at a meeting last night in Johns park pavilion.

Stripes were awarded to Robert Stevenson, Harold Steltzer, Richard Heiser and Fred Kline, patrol leaders, and Robert Steltzer and Wilmer Ladd, assistants.

A program of group singing and games followed. A committee of Ed Wiley and Adam Schmidt were in charge of the meeting. Frend Boals, Mansfield police officer, will address the scouts at a meeting next Thursday night.

DENIES SCHOOL FIRE HAZARDS

Miller Answers Fire Marshal, Says 'Panic Bolts' to Be Installed in 60 Days.

In compliance with an order from State Fire Marshall Ray Gill, "panic bolts" and other safety devices will be installed in Mansfield elementary schools within 60 days, Supt. W. L. Miller said today.

Denying that there are fire hazards at some of the elementary buildings, Supt. Miller said exit doors, alarms and other safety devices at the schools were inspected regularly and kept in order.

He said "panic bolts" for all the exit doors had been purchased and some of them have been installed. The board of education had been ordered previously by the fire marshall to install the safety bolts and recently was given 60 days to complete the installation.

Fire Chief Charles Seeburger had criticized school officials for "laxity" in carrying out the fire marshal's order. Seeburger had said that fire doors in a number of the buildings were rusty and difficult for small children to open.

The state order included the installation of a larger alarm bell at Bushnell school and an additional exit door at the Bowman building.

HITS 4 HOMES

Blaze in Crawford County Village Spreads.

BUCYRUS—Fanned by a strong southwest wind, four Oceola residences were damaged by fire which started in the second floor of the William Brown residence early Thursday.

The flames were extinguished by a bucket brigade formed by residents of the village assisted by Fire Chief William Mader of Bucyrus and several of his firemen who went to the scene in a small utility truck with extinguishers and fire fighting tools.

The fire completely destroyed the Brown home and damaged the homes of Mrs. Catherine Gingery, Christ Schnarrenberger and John Brown.

Part of the damage was covered by insurance.

SERVES OUT FINE IN COUNTY JAIL

SHELBY — James Sargent of near Shelby today had been taken to the county jail in Mansfield by Shelby police to serve out the balance of a fine. Sargent was arrested earlier this year by Shelby police and found guilty of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He was fined in Mayor D. B. Young's court and given the chance to pay the fine and costs under an installment plan. He failed to keep the payments of his fine and costs on schedule, police said.

GETS RELEASE

But Richland Countian at Pen Faces Other Charges.

Russell McCammon, sentenced from Richland county for forgery, was among 10 prisoners granted conditional releases today from Ohio penitentiary by the Ohio parole commission.

The commission paroled 50 other prisoners at the penitentiary and five at the Marysville women's reformatory.

McCammon, who began a one-to-20-year sentence last Nov. 21, will be conditionally released Sept. 1, 1940, but he will not go free until Dec. 1, 1940, and then only if authorities in Arizona and two Ohio counties drop charges against him.

He will be released next Sept. 1 to Ashland county authorities who may want him on a forgery count. If he is not wanted there, he will be released a month later to Arizona authorities and then to Summit county, Ohio, officers.

GALION AUXILIARY TO SUPPORT $55,000 BOND ISSUE CAMPAIGN

GALION—Business was combined with pleasure when the Ladies' auxiliary of the Good Samaritan hospital board held an all-day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. F. Unckrich.

The group planned to cooperate with the hospital board in promoting publicity on the hospital bond issue. Citizens of Galion will vote on the $55,000 bond issue at the coming election. The issue calls for erection of a new hospital building.

At noon the group of 14 women was served a sauerkraut dinner. The business session was held in the afternoon with Mrs. Harvey Huy in charge. The group voted also to purchase a new type incubator for the hospital. Most of the day was spent in sewing, making supplies for the maternity department. Another all-day sewing will be held next week.

* * *

With Mrs. W. J. Neff as the new president, officers of the General Aid society of the First Methodist church were installed yesterday by Rev. W. N. Robertson. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Joseph Korb, the outgoing president.

Program features arranged by Mrs. F. E. Feerer included piano numbers by Ann Deaton and Leona Stanford, a duet by Mrs. O. E. Hill and Mrs. Korb, and readings by Mrs. Fred Biszantz. Refreshments were served by Section A.

* * *

"Haps and Mishaps During the Summer Vacation" were given as roll call responses yesterday evening when the Progress club met at the home of Mrs. O. E. Hill. The group was welcomed by the new president, Mrs. Ralph Spaid.

Songs by Blossom Burget opened and closed the program, and papers were presented by Mrs. W. L. Swick and Luella Tracht. The co-hostess was Mrs. W. W. Koppe.

60 Senior High Bandsmen to Seek Funds For Uniforms Saturday.

Sixty members of the Senior high school band will go out on the street tomorrow to help raise funds for new uniforms. It will be "tag day" and the high school students will work in shifts of three hours, covering down town corners and office buildings.

The Chamber of Commerce rooms will be headquarters, in charge of the Band Mothers club. Backed by the club, the students are attempting to replace their five-year-old uniforms.

OPENS BIDS

NEW LONDON—Bids will be opened Nov. 3 on construction of a sewage system and disposal plant for New London.

The sewage system will be another step in the village's modernization program which includes a water softening plant, improved fire equipment and a new post office building.

KILLED BY BROTHER

MARTINS FERRY—(INS)—Fifteen-year-old Dale Marvin Kennedy, of nearby Key, was killed today when he wandered in front of a target at which his older brother was shooting.

MEET TO FLAY BIGELOW PLAN

Foes of Movement to Explain Objections at County-Wide Session Tonight.

More than 200 citizens and representatives from various organizations in the city and county will attend the mass meeting today against the Bigelow pension and initiative plans at the American Legion at 7:30 p. m.

The meeting is intended to give the public a picture of what the two Bigelow proposals are, what they will cost and who will benefit by them, also the means of raising funds to finance the pension amendment.

Frank B. Pauly will be the principal speaker, talking on "You'll Pay For It." Pauly, former newspaper man now identified with the State Retail Merchants association, represents the Ohio Emergency committee which was formed to combat the two Bigelow proposals.

The county-wide mass meeting was planned by the Richland County Emergency committee, affiliated with the state organization. The county unit has opened offices in the Farmers Bank building.

The Bigelow plans will be on the ballots Nov. 7. Opponents to the pension plan believe it a clear cut issue between people who have nothing and those who have real esate, including small home owners.

75 JOIN AT 'Y'

149 Memberships Renewed in Drive, Workers Report.

Seventy-five new members were signed in the first four days of the annual Y. M. C. A. enrollment campaign, it was reported at a dinner meeting of workers at the Evergreens cafeteria last night.

Workers revealed 149 present members had been re-signed so far in the week's drive.

A goal of 200 new members has been set, leaving 125 memberships yet needed to reach the goal by Monday. The goal for the renewal campaign is 300.

D. O. Meese, campaign chairman, was the principal speaker at the meeting. Workers will make another report to the Y. M. C. A. between 5 and 7 p. m. today. The final report will be given at a dinner meeting Monday night at the "Y."

NO '39 HUSKING CONTEST

ASHLAND — There will be no corn husking contest in this county this fall, it was announced here by N. H. Shilliday, county agent.

Shilliday said all the enthusiasm for the contests was derived from the Nankin Federated church corn field at Nankin, and since the debt has all been paid, interest has dwindled so that there are no competitors available, Shilliday said.

Hits Bigelow Plan

Frank B. Pauley, Columbus, representative of the Ohio Emergency committee which has been set up to combat the Bigelow pension plan, will be the speaker at 7:30 p. m. today at the American Legion home when a county-wide mass meeting is held by the Richland County Emergency committee. His topic will be "You'll Pay For It." The meeting is open to the public.

SUES ASHLAND MAN WHO GETS PEN SENTENCE

Former Employer Asks $650 From Reinhardt; Loan Firm Charges Fraud.

ASHLAND—A few minutes before he was sentenced to the Ohio State penitentiary, Ray S. Reinhardt, 35, former Mansfield Provident company manager here, was sued by his former employer, who asked the recovery of $650.

Reinhardt had come into the court room for arraignment on two counts, one for embezzlement of $8,179.69 and the other for falsification in obtaining a certificate of title for a motor vehicle.

In the petition filed by the loan company it is claimed that Reinhardt, on Sept. 12, forged the name of J. E. Harrison on a promissory note obtained through the company.

With the $650, the petition declares, Reinhardt bought an automobile, forging the name of J. E. Motter on the alleged falsified affidavit and application.

100 LEAVE FOR OHIO CHRISTIAN YOUTH MEETING

Representatives of 17 County Churches Attend Sessions at Springfield.

One hundred young people representing 17 Richland county churches left this afternoon for Springfield to attend the 23rd annual Ohio Christian Youth conference.

Included among the delegates are young people from five Mansfield churches. Two chartered buses took 55 of the delegates while others made the trip by automobile.

Opening today the conference will continue through Sunday, and will feature talks by prominent religious leaders from throughout the country. "Forward Together With Christ" is the theme of the three-day meeting.

University Head Speaks.

Dr. Harold Cooke Phillips, pastor of the First Baptist church, Cleveland, will give the opening address tonight, and Dr. Phillip Nash, president of the University of Toledo, will deliver the conference sermon Sunday morning.

Mansfield churches represented are St. John's Evangelical, Mayflower Congregational, First Congregational, First Methodist and First Lutheran. County churches are Plymouth Methodist, Clay Lutheran, Ganges Reformed, Oakland Lutheran, Pavonia and Olivesburg Methodist, Pleasant Valley Baptist, Richland Church of the Brethren, Franklin Methodist, Lexington Christian, Little Washington Congregational, Shelby United Brethren and Shelby Lutheran.

DOG CODDLED

Owner of Terrier in Pound Provides Daily Diet.

BELMONT, Mass. — (U P) — Though confined to the city dog pound for having bitten two persons, Pat, a wire-haired fox terrier owned by Mrs. James Dever, is not deprived of his special daily diet.

Custodian Charles Bacon daily prepares Pat a breakfast consisting of orange or tomato juice, a portion of imported cheese, weak tea, toasted crackers and cereal with half milk and half cream. Pat's afternoon meal consists of a small bone and in the evening he is fed one quarter pound of "choice" hamburg and several dog biscuits. Twice a week he gets two ice cream cones.

The food is supplied by Mrs Dever.

Machine to Go Around World In 20 Minutes

CHICAGO—(U P)—Scientists at the Armour Institute of Technology have designed a device which they predict will take man around the world in 20 minutes.

No mystery rocket or air-piercing speedplane is the machine now under construction. It's a giant snow cruiser ordered by the U. S. Antartic service for use this winter at the South Pole.

Actually the cruiser will traverse a circle only 600 feet in radius, but within that circle will be the South Pole, axis of revolving earth.

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, Institute scientist who will accompany the expedition to Antartica, said the 'round-the-world' trip will be necessary to determine the approximate location of the pole.

By observing the sun, moon, or certain stars, Poulter said, scientists can place the pole within a circle with a 600-foot radius. They cannot, he said, be more exact.

SUGGESTS IDEA TO BAG SUBS

PHILADELPHIA—(U P)—A Philadelphia bio-chemist has suggested to the government a method of tracing submarines.

According to Dr. Max Trumper, submarines leave a telltale gaseous spoor on the surface of the water. By means of chemicals, a color reaction can be produced to indicate the position of the submersible, he said.

Dr. Trumper believes that four or five months of research work could produce the proper chemicals and dyes.

RETURNS $31.27

PORTLAND, Me.—(U P)—Once more two family banks in Dominick Razzi's home are full of money. Twenty-four hours after a thief had emptied them of $31.27, Razzi found a package on the porch of his home. It bore a note: "Here's the money I took. I am sorry. Please forgive."

GALION—Ruth Barrett, Galion teacher, has been called to Hurley, Va., by the sudden death of her father.

RISING PRICES HIT NEWSPAPERS AS PRESS SERVICES HIKE RATES

The American housewife is not the only one who is being affected by rising prices due to the war. The newspapers are noticing it too—and paying it.

Two of the major news services, the United Press and International News Service, have increased their assessments on newspapers served by them to cover the additional cost of handling European war news and pictures.

The News-Journal has both services. The Associated Press, which also serves The News-Journal, has not increased its rates to newspapers yet.

A widespread war means that the news services must send more men to the important centers of conflict to cover the happenings. War also means the sending of many times the usual wordage by telegraph and the handling of a larger number of pictures for newspapers throughout the world.

Keeping the telegraph wires humming adds to the expense of operating news services. It costs from 18 cents to 52 cents a word to send news dispatches from Europe, depending upon the distance.

The United Press boosted its assessments 12½ per cent and the INS "upped" its charge to to newspapers 15 per cent. The increase represents an added cost to newspapers ranging up to $150 a week. A clause in the news service contracts permits an increase of 25 per cent during war periods.

United Press officials said they have already spent $125,000 above normal expenditures for European war news, while the INS said its costs have gone up $10,000 a week since the war started.

SHERIFF WARNS

Tells of 'Short Measuring' by Linoleum Peddlers.

Sheriff E P Long warned today against the purchasing of home furnishings from peddlers unless they represent reputable firms.

The warning came as a result of complaints from the southern part of the county that linoleum salesmen were "short measuring" when they sold floor coverings.

One housewife complained that the linoleum she purchased covered only two-thirds of her kitchen although she paid for enough for the entire floor.

The sheriff said the agents, one of whom was warned to stay out of the county, rolled a part of the linoleum back on the spool while the purchaser was not looking and led her to believe she was getting more floor covering than he actually sold her.

The salesman explained that he was selling "remnants" and had told the purchaser the linoleum might be an "odd size," Sheriff Long said.

TURKISH PACT BLOW TO NAZIS

MacKenzie Sees Mutual Aid Treaty Strong Aid For Allied Powers.

peared to be quietly pursuing their search for peace.

The conference of Scandinavian countries adjourned without initiating any peace move.

There were two other highly interesting developments, however.

One had to do with Herr Hitler's decree annexing conquered Polish provinces. He left dangling in the air for final disposal close to 50,000 square miles of what was the heart of Poland. Germany is occupying this zone right up to the Russian frontier.

Many observers are wondering if Herr Hitler intends to offer this for a new Polish state in an effort to appease the Allies and thus end the war.

At the same time the German high command, in announcing withdrawal of the French from German soil in the west, emphasized that the Nazi troops which reoccupied this area stopped at the French frontier. That is, they didn't venture to trespass on French ground.

This was a new way of telling France that the reich has no quarrel with her.

The purpose, of course, is to inspire either the Anglo-French Allies or neutrals to make another overture for a cessation of hostilities.

Nazis Keep News of Turkish Pact Secret.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—German people knew nothing today of the new British-French-Turkish military pact but the newspapers informed them that Germany and Russia had ratified their recent pact.

Nazis were obviously angry at Turkey supporting the western powers but they were somewhat reserved in their comment pending the arrival of Baron Franz Von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, who was hastening home to report to Adolf Hitler.

Ratification of the Russo-German pact was Germany's answer to the Turkish pact, Nazis said. Nazi commentators added that they were "sorry" for Turkey.

"Mark my words, the western powers will betray Turkey just as they betrayed Poland and Czechoslovakia," said one Nazi.

"Turkey has made a huge mistake."

See Pact Stop Nazi Black Sea Thrusts.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Britons rejoiced today at the conclusion of an Allied alliance with Turkey which, they believed, had stopped any German thrust toward the Black sea and had given Italy substantial reason not to cast her lot with Germany in the war.

It was the first diplomatic success of the Allies since Germany and Russia concluded a trade agreement Aug. 19 and followed it with a non-aggression treaty Aug. 23.

Turkey is safeguarded against entering a war with Russia, but the British and French are not at war with Russia and hope not to be. Therefore the tendency here was to regard Turkey, situated in an area of enormous strategic importance, as a full ally with an army of 200,000 good soldiers, 2,000,000 trained reserves and 1,000 airplanes. In the World war Turkey was an invaluable ally of Germany — one without whom she could not have fought the war for four years.

Turkish forts dominate Italy's fortified Dodecanse islands, Turkey is the key nation of the entire Near East, Turkey borders both on the Black sea and the Mediterranean, Turkey holds the Dardanelles straits which links these seas, and Turkey has naval bases at Izmit, in the Sea of Mamora, and at Chesme, on the Smyrna coast.

Turkey is in position to aid Britain in keeping open its life line through the Suez Canal—or in cutting Italy's life line to Ethiopia.

Finland Drafting Reply to Russia.

HELSINGFORS, Finland — (U.P.) —Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko returned from Stockholm today and immediately began conferences with the cabinet to draft a final reply to Soviet Russian "demands."

The government prepared its reply with confidence that Sweden, Norway and Denmark would help Finland to maintain her independence.

Erkko also conferred with J. K. Paasikivi, Finland's negotiator with Russia. In Stockholm Erkko consulted with the Swedish, Norwegian and Danish foreign ministers. Paasikivi probably will leave for Moscow Saturday night with Finland's reply.

The nature of Russia's demands still had not been disclosed officially but they were believed to have called for concessions in strategic Finnish islands. President Kyosti Kallio of Finland said in a radio broadcast yesterday at Stockholm, at the conclusion of the two-day conference of the Nordic nations, that the demands were of a "serious nature."

POLICE TO HOLD PARADE, ROAST

SHELBY — The annual Halloween celebration will be sponsored Oct. 30 by the Shelby police department. A parade will be held followed by an ox roast and a square and round dance. The roast will be held along the Flack Fork river south of the fire department building. Arrangements are in charge of a committee comprised of Police Chief Leroy Coffee and Patrolmen William Hafer, Frank Cline, William Ewalt, Jack Coleman and Walter Benedict.

CRIME HARBOR ON OHIO RIVER TO BE PURGED

No Man's Land of Vice Said to Be Between Indiana and Kentucky.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Vice and illicit liquor traffic which have flourished in a five-mile area along the Ohio river near Evansville, Ind., face an early showdown with the law.

The Council of State Governments reports policing measures for the mile-deep "no man's land" have been recommended by Indiana and Kentucky authorities in a joint study.

The land lies in Kentucky. It was shifted to the Indiana side of the Ohio when the river changed its course nearly 100 years ago.

Kentucky enforcement agencies have been reluctant to cross the river. Indiana authorities, eager for a chance to step in, have watched the 20-year development of illicit activity without legal power to intervene.

Writs Block Policing.

Weary of persistent barriers to enforcement in the form of simple court writs labeled "lack of jurisdiction," Indiana officials appealed to the Council of State Governments.

At the council's recommendation, representatives of Indiana and Kentucky law enforcement departments met at Louisville and mapped legislation providing reciprocal policing powers.

Now they are awaiting favorable action by the legislature of the two states. Neither body is scheduled to meet before January, 1940.

The onetime outlaw haven will not be free of surveillance for the interim, however. Kentucky police said they would provide routine checks until double-action state laws could be effected.

This was not the first example of successful mediation by the Council of State Governments. While the organization has no legal identity, its influence has been responsible for boundary dispute settlements between Minnesota and Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Urges Conference.

The council recently urged a two-state conference to terminate amicably differences between Missouri and Kansas in connection with a shift of the Missouri river channel.

The river's diversion placed 2,000 acres of Kansas land on the Missouri side. Kansas authorities claim the land because until the river's shift it was tilled by Kansas farmers. Missouri, however, has sold tracts to Missouri claimants and recorded deeds for transfer of the property.

But the Council of State Governments announced arbitration would iron out the difficulty and asked immediate cooperative study of the two states.

Urges Farm Life For High Blood Pressure Patients

Persons suffering from high blood pressure have a much better chance for recovery if they live on the farm than in the city, Dr. Johnson McGuire, Cincinnati, told 150 physicians and nurses at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday evening.

He was one of the speakers at the third session of the post-graduate lectures sponsored by the Ohio State Medical association.

"The patient with high blood pressure needs the calm and quiet of country life and should get away from the fast tempo of the city if possible," Dr. Johnson said.

He advocated regular diet, orderly living and reduced weight if the patient is heavy as protective measures against overworking the heart when the blood pressure is high.

Dr. Charles W. Pavey of Columbus was the second speaker, lecturing on "Obstetrics in the Home."

Dr. John S. Hattery of Mansfield, was in charge of the session which attracted the largest group since the lectures were started more than a year ago.

BEETLES PROVE COSTLY TO TRAP

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—It required 14,397 traps maintained at a cost of approximately $50,000, to catch 28 Japanese beetles here last year, according to J. Carl Dawson, state entomologist. The traps were put out in 1934 to guide the department of agriculture in protecting vegetation in this area after several of the insects were found in a lumber shipment for the east.

A crew of 75 men will continue to check the traps daily this year, Dawson said. In 1937 only one beetle was caught in the 14,397 traps.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1939.

War makers must first throw the Golden Rule in the discard.

A flat-rate pension plan can never work out satisfactorily—as some people need so many more things than others.

A Columbia university professor thinks the average person can tell all he knows in two hours—but it sometimes seems that fifteen minutes is a great plenty.

Keep Tab On Alien Agitators

WHETHER through the Dies committee or some other agency, the investigation of un-American activities which has been going on for a number of months, should be continued.

Revelations already made of alien forces at work in this country have been sufficient to justify expenditure of all the money it has cost to carry on the Dies investigation and to warrant the additional modest appropriation that will soon be needed to continue this work beyond the present January deadline.

The United States has a definitely established form of government with which a vast majority of native-born and naturalized citizens are at least reasonably well satisfied, and for which they have no desire to substitute naziism, fascism, communism or any other alien "ism."

The right to make constitutional or legislative changes rests at all times with a majority of American citizens and they are not inclined to transfer this responsibility — and privilege—to alien agitators of any breed.

The people of America have a right to know what is going on in this country of theirs and it is an obligation of proper agencies of government to keep them informed. The work of the Dies committee and the federal bureau of investigation should by all means be continued.

Educating Stockholders

STOCKHOLDERS, big and little, have been receiving calls from representatives of Western Union, for mutual information. The visited stockholder is urged to ask questions on any phase of the company's business.

The questions vary with the viewpoint of the questioners. Not every stockholder thinks to ask about employes' wages and opportunity for advancement, though that should certainly be a matter of importance to intelligent share-owners. Many, no doubt, would ask about current profits or deficits and the prospect for dividends. It might require a series of calls, over a period of years, to educate stockholders in general to learn what they should want to know.

Much has been said, during the depression years, about stockholders who don't know what the companies in which they hold stock are doing. They seem interested only in dividends and are indifferent to their own responsibilities toward the company, toward themselves, or toward society at large. Here is a move to interes. them in becoming better informed about the company as a money-maker, as an employer, as a taxpayer, and so on. Carried out intelligently t should be of considerable social value.

Autumn Book Crop

THERE were 966 new books published last month—246 more than in September a year ago. A number of these dealt with European affairs and were virtually obsolete before they reached bookshops.

The largest single class of books in that September output was the juvenile group with 168 titles. Fiction came next with 147, and history third with 82. The remaining 569 were divided among religion, science, art, drama, poetry, biography and all the odds and ends that get into books.

It is clear that there is no dearth of reading matter in this country. How much of it is read, how much of it is worth reading, how much of it becomes a part of the reader, are questions not easily answered. But one thing is sure. It's fine to be in a country in which books may be freely written, freely published and freely read.

Coddling Commuters

AN EASTERN RAILROAD is modernizing its smoking facilities. After making a thorough survey of commuters' wishes in the matter, it announces several interesting innovations.

First, all cars will be plainly identified, inside and out, as smoking or non-smoking cars. There will be more of them and they will be scattered along through a long train, so that no smoker will have to walk far to reach a place to smoke. Furthermore, even the smoking cars are to have improved ventilation.

These arrangements are based on the expressed wishes of passengers. It was found that even habitual tobacco users were emphatic in their belief that smokers should stick to smoking cars. Most smokers said they visited smoking cars only "occasionally," yet preferred them to indiscriminate smoking in all coaches.

More Jobs, More Workers

EMPLOYMENT in New York City during September was above the 1929 average—according to a statistical report published by the local Works Projects administrator. The number of unemployed persons was at its lowest point since October, 1937. Yet, because of the growth of the available supply of labor in the last ten years, the index of joblessness in September was above the 1929 figure.

There were more people at work, but at the same time more people needing work.

"It is estimated," says the chief statistician for the federal relief agency in New York, "that employment will have to rise approximately 15 to 20 per cent above 1929 levels before unemployment is reduced to the 1929 average."

Cars Ahead of Tubs

REPORTS are to the effect that many American families have automobiles who do not have bathtubs. This may mean that auto salesmen are better business-getters than are plumbing salesmen. It probably does not mean that Americans prefer riding to bathing.

At any rate, it may be hoped that statisticians and sociologists will handle the information tactfully. Most people would rather have the amount of plumbing increased than the number of cars reduced. That may be the way it will work out, for it has been the American experience that all business is better when the automobile business is good.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It must be a source of genuine satisfaction for John Barrymore to know that New York still thinks of him as the embodiment of Hamlet, despite a locust swarm of Hamlets, fat and thin, in the last five years. . . . Though impressions of Evans, Gielgud, Howard, and others are fresh and undimmed, the critics, who have been watching Shakespeare's gloomy ne'er-do-well for a generation, almost without exception say Barrymore could give them all Spades and still come out on top. John Mason Brown has written "John Barrymore remains the Hamlet we shall continue to see in our mind's eye, as the perfect embodiment of the Prince . . . The Hamlet he ignited with the fire of genius. . . ."

That was nearly 20 years ago on Broadway. . . . As the years go by appreciation of the lanky Barrymore's acting becomes keener. . . . John himself, touched with nostalgia and in a mood to reminiscence, declares he intends to do a limited engagement of Hamlet again before very long. . . . Probably this is the impulsive speech of an actor who likes to do things on the spur of the moment. . . . But he can't forget, and who is to blame him, that he won a most flattering success in New York and duplicated that success in London, when everybody from George Bernard Shaw down to the backstage scrubdrudge, warned him against doing an American Hamlet in the heart of London.

* * *

AS A matter of fact, the Barrymore Hamlet became the subject of a celebrated letter to the actor from Shaw, who thought Jack had plenty of nerve to "rewrite" shakespeare. Barrymore had cut the original play and rewritten a part of it. . . . After the performance, Shaw wrote: "Dear Mr. Barrymore, as an actor you are not without a certain skill, but at writing plays, Shakespeare can write your head off."

Barrymore wants to go back to London—not as the Prince—but with "My Dear Children," which New York has not yet seen but which has been running continuously for months in Chicago.

Writing in the current issue of "The Curtain Falls," he says, "It was two years after the flattering success I had in New York as Hamlet before I was able to get a theater in London. . . . Finally the First Night. . . . The man in front of the house kept coming back to tell me about the audience. "Of course, you know," he reported, "Mr. Shaw is in the house."

* * *

NEXT he came back to say, "With the greatest difficulty we managed to find two seats for Mr. Masefield." . . . The effect of this upon a nervous American in London, about to appear in the best play that London has produced, can well be imagined. The man from the front kept on telling me of the arrival of people—of Dunsany, of Maugham, of the Asquiths. . . . Somehow it did not add to my scare. I had the same sense of detachment, I imagine, that one would feel on the route to the guillotine. Then my first scene. . . . Those seconds I sat on the darkened stage waiting for the curtain to go up I shall never forget."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Oct. 20, 1919.

"Get this clear, we'll discuss no compromise," said John L. Lewis, acting president of United Mine Workers, in reference to threatened coal strike.

William Bailey, farmer, reported his horse and buggy stolen from North Franklin avenue.

Eugene Tobias sold garage and auto agency, preparatory to going to Oregon fruit farm.

Rev. L. A. Wood went to Dayton to attend state convention of Baptist churches.

More than forty attended banquet of Mansfield Builders Exchange at Vonhof hotel grill.

Charles Beelman reported harvesting second crop of red raspberries.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Oct. 20, 1934.

Vic Donahey and Martin L. Davey headed a Democratic torch light political parade.

Miss Margaret Darling and Carl L. Calver were married at Park Avenue Baptist church.

Establishment of a Federal Junior Emergency college in Mansfield was assured.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ward, 127 Chilton avenue.

Anton Miller, 20, of 334 Third avenue, was killed when he leaped from a truck near Coshocton.

Members of Senior high school band appeared at Stadium field for the first time in their new navy blue and gold uniforms.

What's Going On Here?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE YOU seeing what I see . . . hearing what I hear? Or am I the only one who's crazy? Tell me, somebody—tell me quick! For it sure has me running 'round in dizzy circles, getting nowhere fast!

HERE WE ARE, IN A DEMOCRACY. Or are we? At any rate, we were, when I last heard. An honest-to-goodness democracy, chuckful of freedom, equality and 100 per cent Americanism. A democracy our dads had died for . . . and we'd been rooting for, ever since.

No, I'm not kidding about that democracy. We meant it. At least, we were supposed to mean it! We loved this country of ours . . . or thought we did! We were proud of all that America had done . . . and all America had meant. We were proud of all America had given, both to the native born and the alien. We were strong for anything that served America . . . or promoted or protected it . . .

AND DEAD SET AGAINST ANYTHING THAT BELITTLED IT . . .

OR WERE WE?

THAT'S WHAT HAS ME BOTHERED.

WAS IT ALL JUST A BIG BLUFF, THIS LOVE 'N' LOYALTY OF OURS? OR DID IT MEAN SOMETHING? WAS THERE SOMETHING TO BACK IT?

Remember that Mother Goose rhyme about the "old woman whose name was Stout" who "went to market, on the market day, and fell asleep on the King's highway." And, while she slept, a rascal "cut off her petticoats all 'round about—" So when she awoke she began to cry—"LACK-A-MERCY ON ME! THIS IS NONE O' I! But if it be I, as I hope it be, I've a little dog at home and he'll know me!"

Remember that cry, "LACK-A-MERCY ON ME! THIS IS NONE O' I!" Well, I'm thinking of that cry these days. I'm thinking of it as I recall what America used to be . . . and what it is now . . . with these Nazi camps and Fascist units and Communistic cells giving us the hoss' laugh!

IS THIS, OR ISN'T IT, THE AMERICA YOU AND I KNEW?

AND IF IT IS, WHAT HAS HAPPENED WHILE WE SLEPT?

Take, for example, that recent meeting in San Francisco . . . those speeches of the GERMAN-AMERICAN BUND. In the first place, what, for Pete's sake, is a German-American Bund? 'Tisn't German. 'Tisn't American. 'Tisn't Bund. You tell 'em, George! But, at any rate, a little man was speaking.

Whatever he WAS or whatever he MEANT, this is what the little man said right in the middle of our big, proud, smile-when-you-say-it democracy. He said:

"The rusty brains of democracy are too rusty to work any more. Young Italy and young Germany are not afraid. They take what they want; they do not go begging and saying, 'Please, may I have this?' Mussolini took Ethiopia in six months when fifty-two nations told him not to. The experts said it would take thirty or forty years and Italy did it in six months. Now Hitler is doing the same thing."

That wasn't all. There was a great deal more. Big, proud talk about Mr. Hitler and Mr. Mussolini and Mr. Stalin. And a lot of sad, sad tears for poor, dear, misunderstood Fritz Kuhn whom we heartless, meanie Americans are holding under $50,000 bond on a charge that he stole Bund money. But of course we're mistaken. We're just Americans so we're mistaken.

And while the collection was being taken up for poor, dear Fritz, scores of other speakers in other cities were telling us Americans just what saps and suckers we are . . . and spitting on our flag . . . and kicking our citizens around . . . and training nice little second-generation Nazis and Fascists and Communists to do the same.

And so I'm asking—

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? DO YOU HEAR WHAT I HEAR? IS OR ISN'T THIS DEMOCRACY GETTING THE BRONX CHEER? OR AM I THE ONLY ONE WHO'S CRAZY?

(Copyright, 1939.)

Indian Summer's Origin

This is the season for the annual discussion about Indian summer: Does it come in October or November? Have we had it or is it to come? Are there some years that have no Indian summer? And what did the Indian have to do with it?

This year a contribution is made by an authority, Dr. Erl Bates, adviser on Indian extension. His work is in connection with the New York State College of Agriculture, and he has direct contacts with Indians who till the land.

This is a bit of Indian folk lore that Dr. Bates learned: They say the good Indian gets busy harvesting his crops during the fine fall weather, but the lazy Indian says, "It's a long time yet to cold weather." So the lazy Indian sleeps or plays or goes hunting and neglects his harvest.

Then the Great Spirit sends Jack Frost to "stir up Big Brave Lazy-bones. Lazy-bones prays to the Great Spirit to give him another chance, and the Great Spirit sends what the paleface calls Indian Summer—but the Red Man calls it "Lazy farmer's chance."—Detroit News.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"The Woods Are Full of Them."

The woods have become the category for all the rag, tag and bobtail of the mediocre and the commonplace: which, however, is not how it started.

The original significance of this expressive phrase was quite literal.

The allusion is to a story related by Alexander Wilson in the Preface to his "American Ornithology," published in 1808.

A boy had been gathering flowers.

Presenting them to his mother, the youngster cried:

"Look, my dear Ma! What beautiful flowers I have found growing in our place! Why, all the woods are full of them!"

And soon everybody was saying it.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—There is much good-natured chatter about the extent of Senator "Happy" Chandler's statesmanship but he can be cited as a man who made the most of a college education.

He is a one-man charm school. We have never run into more than a half-dozen persons who know him who did not close their remarks something to this effect:

"In spite of all that, I like him personally."

He belongs to the flashing-grin school of politicians. The group was easily headed by Paul V. McNutt until Chandler hove into town.

Our information is that Chandler spent something close to seven years in college in Kentucky. In that time he may have skipped over calculus and freshman economics, but he didn't miss a bet when it came to making friends.

* * *

15 Years Later.

HE TOOK the usual four years at Transylvania, a historic seat of learning turned sectarian some years ago, then soaked up law at Kentucky university. Never a freshman class came in nor a senior class went out during the time he was there without Chandler knowing—we have this from very good sources—practically every member.

His memory for names and faces is phenomenal. Postmaster General Farley is equally apt at it, and perhaps superior. He has had a longer time to practice. But if "Happy" doesn't waste away his political talents in a frantic pursuit of the presidency, he will make somebody sometime a grand traveling advocate, either as national chairman or postmaster general.

Here is a sample. A student from a rival school met Chandler fairly often at Lexington, where Translyvania is situated. Later the fellow became a reporter, grew a moustache, acquired poise and polish from foreign travels, and came back to encounter Chandler at a national convention 15 years later.

He not only called the fellow's name but teased him about some forgotten college frivolity. Moreover, Mrs. Chandler, who does well enough at the business, had learned something about the reporter's old college sweetie, who didn't become his wife.

* * *

He Likes It.

THE thing sort of stalls you. Most practicing politicians work at it, but once away from the mob they don't hide their distaste of such a way of making a living.

In Lexington as a college man he used to spend his afternoon hours standing in front of the old Lexington drug store, mitting his friends and buying nickel drinks for acquaintances. Offhand we can't name a single college course that can promise more returns.

Mrs. Chandler, a Richmond girl, is widely credited with giving direction to the bubbling talents of the master mixer. Kentuckians have it that she piloted him into politics where a knack for remembering 10,000 names and faces can be turned into retailable property.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Making Over Dreams.

You "make over" coats and gowns,
Why not do the same
For the hopes, outmoded, dead,
Now but just a name?

Why not bring dreams up-to-date,
If they have grown stale?
Old dreams dormant in the heart,
These can make you fail

Of the beauty and the worth
Of the passing days:
Making over dreams to fit
New conditions pays.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The sudden disaster which has befallen the British navy, one-time proud ruler of the seven seas, has had certain reverberations in the U. S. navy.

The drastic shake-up in the engineering bureaus of the navy department followed quite a little soul-searching as to whether some of the new U. S. naval vessels are worth all the millions lavished upon them.

The old clique which has dominated the bureau of engineering and the bureau of construction and repair has finally been swept out. However, it took Roosevelt himself to move them. For months, others in the navy had been worried over U. S. warship design and urging the White House to act.

Finally, realization that the British navy was by no means invincible and that the Germans had concocted some new torpedoes which could even sink battleships, helped to produce action.

Cracked Ships.

IT HAS LONG been no secret that there were serious defects in the new U. S. 10,000-ton cruisers of the Indianapolis class. Five of them suffered a cracked sternpost, which is one of the most important parts of any vessel, for on it hangs the rudder. These posts had to be replaced at a cost of $30,000 each.

This type of cruiser also suffered from rolling, but when rolling tanks were placed in their holds, with bilge keels along their bottoms, they rolled just as badly.

Then it was found that the very latest type of cruiser shimmied. And so far the naval experts have not been able to eliminate the shimmy.

On top of all this the crack new destroyers of the Anderson class were built with too much weight above the waterline, so that they are inclined to be top-heavy. This was discovered only recently and it was too much for Roosevelt. He finally decided to clean house.

New executive in charge of the vital bureau of construction and repair is Rear Admiral Alexander H. Van Keuren, who served as expert at the London naval conference of 1930 when the admirals staged a knock-down drag-out fight over limiting cruiser construction.

It was the theory of Secretary of State Stimson that cruisers should be built more slowly, giving time to test them out and ascertain defects. Admiral Hilary Jones disagreed with this so vigorously that he withdrew from the delegation. Some navy men agreed with Stimson, however, one of them being Admiral Van Keuren, the new chief of construction.

Fish for President.

IT'S not supposed to leak out, but Congressman Ham Fish was all set to have himself launched as Republican presidential candidate last week, and the launching was to have occurred in Dutchess county, New York, the home of F. D. Roosevelt.

The boom had been prepared with elaborate care. Ham Fish is the president's vigorous critic, but also his own congressman. And it was purposely arranged that the boom begin in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., just a few miles from Hyde Park. It was even to be held in the Nelson hotel, which is used as the White House summer office.

The occasion was a dinner staged by Dutchess county Republicans. In advance of the dinner, Representative Fish called in newspapermen and gave them an advance copy of a resolution which the meeting was going to adopt demanding that Ham run for president.

The resolution started with this modest tribute:

"The Dutchess County Republican Committee, knowing of his eminent qualifications and his appeal to the American people, hereby urges Representative Hamilton Fish of this District to permit his name to be presented as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President in 1940. . . . "

Ham gave the press a statement that he was "reserving decision for the present while I talk the matter over with friends during the next month." Newspapermen put the story on the wire. The stage was all set.

But the unforeseen happened. The chairman of the Dutchess Republicans spiked the resolution. He is Frederic H. Bontecou, handsome husband of Cornelia Metcalf, daughter of the wealthy former senator from Rhode Island. Also Bontecou was the running-mate of Tom Dewey last year, and he flatly refused to let the Ham Fish resolution be introduced.

Fish made a little speech and someone mentioned that the Orange county Republican committee had endorsed Fish for president the day before.

That was all—except that the newspapermen made frantic last-minute efforts to kill their stories and finally succeeded.

Battleship Deal.

THE Dies committee hasn't publicized it yet, but Cordell Hull has been the vigorous champion of Scott Ferris, Democratic national committeeman from Oklahoma, who was charged with helping Soviet Russia try to purchase a battleship in the United States.

Secretary Hull told Congressman Jack Dempsey of New Mexico that there was nothing wrong whatsoever with the Russian negotiation, and that Ferris' work was perfectly proper. Hull pointed out that the United States was then doing its best to sell goods to the Soviet, that the battleship purchase had been submitted through usual official channels and was carefully considered by the navy department.

Mr. Hull's greatest hate is lobbyists, but he said Ferris never had pressured anyone, merely had kept track of the negotiations for the Soviet.

Killing Frost

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT FROSTED last night. Early in the evening the clouds that banked up in the west and spread a cold thin roof had disappeared. The high wind that raked the fallen autumn leaves and heaped them in hollows and along fencerows, had ceased. The evening stars shone like jewels in the keen blue sky. I heard the barking of dogs far down the valley.

About midnight I looked out the southern window and when I opened it my breath split the darkness like a clean white blade. I saw a hoary whiteness on the roof, a new white covering upon the spacious lawn—and I shivered as I went back to bed.

When morning came the landscape looked strangely mutilated. The heavy stemmed tomato vines were limp and lifeless, the thrifty dark green leaves of the stringless green pod beans were encased in icy armor. The smart seeds and tree-like pokeberry colonies that held their tender branches out so proudly appeared like armless dwarfs upon the land. The large bull thistle in the pasture stood alone, a fresh green pillar of defiance with soft purple blooms upon the top and lateral branches.

When the sun came up it quickly bore away the dazzling splendor of white, but the shadows that it cast westward from the house, the barn and the chicken coop were portions of the morning whiteness. The leaves of the black walnut and hickory dropped continuously in the silent air.

I saw a herd of young cattle near the corner of my neighbor's field hump their backs in mute, contented stretches as they got upon their feet. A steamy vapor rose from their grassy beds. Farther down, across another field, I heard the farm boy call, "Sook boss, sook boss."

"When they did come, I saw the yellow-brown soles of his bare feet hurry through the frosty grass. When he chased the first reluctant bovine from her bed, he stood about the place and warmed his feet. He did the same with each new bed, until I saw the entire herd approach the shadow of the barn. The little hero hurried after them and followed the last one through the gate.

I knew how well his reddened feet would feel when they were dry and warm and had quit aching. I really envied him. For I, myself, have been a barefooted farm boy upon a frosty morning.

WOMEN SET UP WAR REGISTER TO AID CANADA

Sponsors of Voluntary Project to Record Qualifications for Government.

MONTREAL—(U P)—With registration booths being set up in every community, Canada's project for Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women is slowly beginning to function and within a short time is expected to be in full swing.

To make the voluntary aspects of the survey quite clear, the project has decided to forego a house-to-house canvass.

Act As Registrars.

Grace M. Ord, national secretary, announces that women from various organizations will be asked to act as registrars to record the information furnished by the registrants.

The project's questionnaire was drafted after a careful study of the registration cards now in use in Great Britain and Australia and of those used in Canada in 1918. Forms used by various ex-service groups, social workers, Canadian manufacturers, military authorities and other organizations also were studied.

One of the basic objectives of the questionnaire is to make a survey of the homes in Canada which might be available under suitable supervision to take in the British population under 16 years of age and past 60 in the eventuality of air raids in Great Britain. Another primary objective is to find out how many men could be replaced in industry by the women best qualified and trained to take their places.

The founders who "mothered" the project in England sought to insure that, in a crisis, women willing to serve their country would be put to the tasks for which they were best qualified.

Willing to Work.

Women fostering the Canadian project made a canvass of the heads of women's organizations in Canada which bore out not only their capability but their willingness to undertake the work of registration. A provisional committee was set up for this purpose and after further consultations with heads of women's organizations, called a meeting for last spring. At this meeting tentative plans were discused for the preparation of the questionnaire which would elicit the type of information most valuable in the event of a crisis.

Vice chairmen for the provinces are to be elected by the provincial organizations now being formulated.

HELD TO JURY

New York Man Faces Charge of Defrauding Innkeeper.

R. H. Scott, Syossett, N. Y., was held in county jail today awaiting action by the grand jury on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper. Scott pleaded innocent to the charge in municipal court yesterday and was bound over to the jury. He was unable to furnish bond of $1,000.

Charges were filed by J. R. Wiseman, resident auditor at the Mansfield-Leland hotel who accused Scott of failing to pay a $16.87 bill for food and lodging.

It is usually our own fault when things go wrong, but it is human nature to want to blame the other fellow for it.

BRITISH PLANES BEAT OFF TWO GERMAN RAIDS

Civilians in Scotland Rush to Shelters While Pursuit Planes Rout Invaders.

There were no air raid alarms, however.

The Germans were reported trying to reconnoiter the terrain near Appach and Perl, where the French artillery fire was reported heaviest.

Similarly, French patrols have established contact with the Germans' new advance positions, seeking prisoners in order to ascertain the nature of the German regiments being brought to the front and those massing behind the lines for another anticipated attack.

Taking advantage of the lull in major fighting since the German offensive on Monday, the French general staff surveyed the results of the fighting and came to the conclusion that the German losses were considerably greater than at first believed.

It was understood the French tactical retreat covered a sector about 20 miles long east of the Saar, and that the French withdrew at some points as much as six miles behind their former advance posts.

Military authorities still insist, however, that the French forces are wholly within German territory, despite German assertions to the contrary.

Will Hitler Start 'Big Push' In Spring?

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—A high military source indicated today that the Allies still anticipate a German attack of a "really serious nature" on the western front.

By WEBB MILLER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY ON THE FRENCH FRONTIER—Unless Adolf Hitler decides to strike within the next few weeks on the western front it is highly likely that the present status of siege warfare will continue throughout the winter and that immense offensive movements on the World war scale will not take place before spring, it appeared today.

This is my purely personal opinion based on my experience in the World war and my personal knowledge of the region on both sides of the frontier where millions of men now face each other. Six times since the World war I have traveled over the whole battlefield.

The massing of Hitler's army at three principal points between Belgium and Switzerland makes it possible, if he decides to take a big gamble with hundreds of thousands of lives, to deliver a large scale attack upon Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin's forces between the Moselle and the Rhine, or make a vast effort to outflank the Allies by a turning movement through Holland, Belgium or Switzerland, or both.

In my opinion the latter alternative, an indirect attack through neutral territory, is unlikely this fall or winter.

Days of continuous rain have rendered the ground extremely difficult for movements of motorized bodies of troops, everywhere rivers are in flood and steady rain continues today.

What seems more likely from what is known of Hitler's troop disposition and the geography of the regions involved is that any medium scale attack would be designed to try to eject the French from any strip of German territory they may hold. But it must always be kept in mind that the German military mind is traditionally fond of great flanking or turning movements. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of the German armed forces, is well known to adhere to these ideas.

BIGELOW DEM GOVERNOR HOPE?

Party Powers See Possibility of Pension Leader Rolling Into Strong Candidate.

Ohio and the Bigelow pension plan. "There may be some Democrats who will climb on that band wagon."

Francis W. Poulson, former Democratic state chairman, called upon the Democrats to defeat the Bigelow plan.

"Defeat it two to one or three to one," he added, "so that it won't bounce up to haunt us in the 1940 election. It might be back and then Bigelow would be the theoretical candidate for governor. There is a lot of danger in this scheme."

Bigelow, who was elected to congress on the Democratic ticket, has disclaimed responsibility for petitions to nominate him for governor, already being circulated by Charles H. Hubbell, of Cleveland.

Poulson was the first Democratic leader to attempt openly to enlist his party in the fight against the Bigelow plan. Many of his colleagues have shied away from committing themselves on the amendment.

Not taking a stand on the Bigelow amendments, he said: "This issue rises above partisan politics. Let's subordinate politics in the interest of the people."

The general possibilities of Bigelow taking the ball on his pension issue and running away from Democratic party leaders who might have their eye on the governorship—such as Davey, Charles Sawyer, former Gov. George White, former Secretary of State William J. Kennedy and former Attorney Gen. Herbert S. Duffy—was a lively topic in hotel room chats.

But the big topic emphasized by nearly all the 19 banquet speakers was harmony.

Democrats seemed to have no doubt that they would recapture the state administration from the Republicans next year if they could unite the party.

Former Governor White was optimistic.

"Postmaster General Farley asked me if Ohio had gone Republican," he said. "I replied no, that it was just a little family quarrel and that we had got it out of our system now."

Kennedy urged the Democrats to adopt Father Divine's slogan: "Peace, it's wonderful."

Most of the speakers based their conviction of success on a belief that President Roosevelt would seek a third term.

14 JOIN CLUB

GALION—Of the 45 students who reported for membership in the Hi-Y club of Galion high school, only 14 of them were accepted.

The new members voted into the club at a recent meeting are Dean Stone, Raymond Patterson, Herbert Turner, Sam Brucato, Richard Auker, Quentin Cahill and Paul Edler who are seniors; Richard Carmel, William Black and Roscoe Webster, juniors; and Billy Richardson, Harry Jackson, Joe King and James Benbow, sophomores.

OFFERS COURSE

GALION—Galion high school is one of the first schools in Ohio to have a secretarial training course, it has been pointed out. One-half of the cost of this project is paid by the federal government.

Maurice Miltenberger is instructor of this department which has 20 students. Each student will work for a week in school offices, and probably in local business offices. A record is kept of each student for two years after graduation.

MILD WEEK-END

That's Forecast, But Rain, Slightly Colder Is Due Tomorrow.

That cool spell the weatherman predicted yesterday has been sidetracked and Mansfield will have a mild week-end, the forecast indicated today.

Fair and warmer was the forecast for tonight with showers and slightly cooler weather due Saturday. Today's noon reading was 73 degrees, against a high of 71 yesterday.

255 AT DINNER

Elks Lodge at Galion Holds Annual Stag Event.

GALION—Many visitors were present for the stag-dinner party held by Galion Lodge of Elks Thursday evening. There were 255 served at the dinner. Music during the dinner was furnished by Jennie Reynolds of Crestline. A floor show provided entertainment later in the evening.

Guests included three past district deputies of the North Central District of Ohio Elks' association: H. M. Stahl and R. T. Nye both of Bellevue, and Doc Wisler of Willard.

There were visitors present from New Philadelphia, Willard, Bellevue, Ashland, Bucyrus, and Garrett, Indiana.

WIFE GOES TOO

Mrs. Reinhardt Accompanies Mate as He's Taken to Pen.

ASHLAND—When Ray S. Reinhardt, 36, former manager of the Ashland branch of the Mansfield Provident company, was taken to Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus today to begin a one to ten year sentence, he was accompanied by his wife.

Her request to be permitted to accompany her husband on his "last ride" for several years was granted by Sheriff Dale Hammond.

Reinhardt pleaded guilty yesterday in common pleas court to two of the five charges against him, one of embezzling $8,178 from the company, and the other with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. He was given two sentences, one to ten and one to five years, to run concurrently.

CURRENT OFF

GALION—Electricity consumers in Galion were without power for about an hour Thursday afternoon due to temporary trouble at the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant.

Officials explained that a generator had caused the shutdown.

TRUCK DRIVER DIES IN FLAMES

Clevelander Pinned in Wreck After Truck Hits Another on Ashland Cut-off.

Loy's truck was in flames on the highway.

Patrolmen and a group of early morning drivers were unable to get close to the truck because of the intense heat and exploding paint and oil which on one occasion blew loose a fender from the truck and tossed it several hundred feet into a field.

Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said that Taylor was being held for questioning. Lutz will also confer with state highway patrolmen on circumstances of the accident.

He said he had talked briefly to Taylor and that he planned to question him further this afternoon.

Traffic Detoured.

Traffic on the heavily traveled route was detoured over the old Windsor road for more than three hours by Ashland and Richland county deputy sheriffs who assisted state patrolmen.

It was nearly 10 a. m. before the fire subsided and the company's wrecking crew was able to extricate the charred body of the driver which was removed to the Jones Memorial. The body was to be taken to Cleveland this afternoon.

The crash was the second fatal accident to occur on the new Windsor cut-off since the highway was opened early this year. About three months ago a government worker was killed when his machine rammed into a bridge abutment just inside Ashland county.

15 Bus Passengers Hurt.

In another accident yesterday on route 3, southwest of Mt. Vernon, two passengers were injured seriously and 13 others cut and bruised when a Columbus-to-Cleveland Greyhound bus slithered on its side into a ditch in avoiding a collision with a horse-drawn mowing machine. Thirteen others escaped injury.

James McCasslin, 50, of the Sandusky Soldiers and Sailors home, suffered a possible pelvic fracture and William Johnson, 50, of Columbus, received a severely strained back, a hospital reported.

The bus driver, Arthur Conklin of Cleveland, said the accident occurred when he swerved as the team started to turn. Robert Briggs, a farmer, said his mower made so much noise he didn't hear the approaching bus.

1,000 SEE CORN HUSKERS RACE

Annual Crawford Event Held on C. F. Hoover Farm Near Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS—Ideal weather prevailed for the annual Crawford county corn husking contest held yesterday at the C. F. Hoover farm five miles southwest of Bucyrus.

Nearly 1,000 persons witnessed the events, including shock and standing corn contests for men, a shock contest for vocational agriculture boys and horse pulling contests. The women's shock event was cancelled due to lack of entries.

Reuben Pritchard of Sulphur Springs retained his title by finishing first in the shock event. Second and third places were awarded to F. E. Hildebrand of Tiro and Robert Peterman of near Crestline.

Husks 1,535 Pounds.

Ed West of Whetstone took first place in the standing corn contest, husking 1,535 pounds in 80 minutes. Second and third places were awarded to Harry Frank of Mt. Zion and Melvin Hill of route 4, Marion, respectively.

Donald Noblit of Mt. Zion finished first in the vocational event with Richard Phillips and Warren Yaussey finishing second and third respectively.

Cash prizes were awarded winners of the first three places by the Pomona Grange, which sponsored the event.

BUCYRUS—Three members of the Zechiel family from Culver, Ind., were confined to City hospital yesterday with injuries received when their car sideswiped a truck near Oceola at noon.

Rev. Samuel Zechiel, 72, retired Methodist minister, is being held at the hospital for observation and his wife, Mrs. Anna Zechiel, 66, is being treated for a fractured right shoulder.

Hundreds Watch Mardi Gras Paraders March Through Business District.

CRESTLINE — Legion drum corps from Upper Sandusky, Galion and Mansfield, also the Mount Zion girls' band, Bucyrus high school band and Crestline high school band participated in Crestline's annual Mardi Gras and Halloween party Thursday evening.

John Berger, jr., was general chairman for the affair and he was assisted by various committees and Herbert Klopfenstein at the microphone.

Judges for the evening parade were Arthur Manzer, Carl W. Chase and Thomas Maidens, all of Galion.

Prizes were awarded to Miss Jennie Stroup and Roy Mead of Galion for the best dressed man and woman and to Martin P. Gaber and Ruth Gaber of Mansfield for the most comical outfit of man and woman.

The Sandusky township delegation received the award for the largest delegation present and Bloominggrove had the second largest. Awards for the best decorated windows went to Weber's Jewelry store and Elizabeth's Dress shop second.

While rain, which fell preceding the evening's parade, thinned the ranks of the evening masquerade the children's parade in the afternoon headed by the high school band was one of the largest ever held in Crestline Mardi Grass with close to 400 children in the line of march.

THEATERS

THE movie version of "Swiss Family Robinson" will remind the world that history repeats itself. In one scene in which Thomas Mitchell as the father calls in his three sons—Tim Holt, Freddie Bartholomew and Terry Kilburn—he has this line to say: "I have been thinking a great deal about this world of ours. We call it civilized yet men are using all of their energies to destroy one another. A little man with an insane ambition has set out to conquer Europe. He doesn't care that a million young men will be killed and maimed because of him!" Funny, but it isn't a modern speech and the "little man" isn't Hitler. The speech was said in the year 1811, the year the story was written and the "little man" was Napoleon Bonaparte.

Two Youthful Stars.

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are the youthful and dynamic stars of "Babes In Arms" which their studio describes as "terrific!" It will be remembered that these two were in one of the Judge Hardy series not so long ago. In "Babes In Arms" they are the children of vaudeville parents who hit on hard days after the movies undermine the vaudeville business. The big theme is the "kid's revue" which Mickey produces, and which, in spite of a storm that blows down their barn-theater, eventually lands them in the big time entertainment field. A "calf love" affair between Mickey and Judy, an old-fashioned minstrel show with them as end men and some lilting melodies sung by Judy and Betty Jaynes, provide "gospel measure" in the way of entertainment. The picture opens at the Ohio tomorrow.

* * *

Birth of a People.

"The Real Glory" which brings Gary Cooper, David Niven, Andrea Leeds and Broderick Crawford to the Madison tomorrow, is a dramatic and impressive story of the Philippine Islands after the evacuation of American troops following the Spanish-American war. The birth of a nation and a people is told through one community which is oppressed by fear of the savage Moros and the barbaric superstitions of the jungle people. Cooper portrays an American doctor, whose two companions are Niven, a curly-haired Irish soldier, and Crawford, a big, hulking Swede who is soldier to the core of him. Moro depredations and the cholera all but clean out the island colony—but the spirit of a free people survives.

* * *

Rogers as Pony Rider.

Roy Rogers, blue-eyed, blond Ohioan of Irish-Indian descent, who is well launched on his way up as a top notch cowboy star, turns from his usual type of role to that of a pony express rider in the pre-war days when California was a pawn between the North and the South. Torn between his love for a girl of the South whose brother is a spy, and his duty as a soldier of the Union ranks, he remains loyal to his sworn duty. Mary Hart supports Rogers in "Frontier Pony Express," which is a Ritz feature today and Saturday. Also shown is "Bulldog Drummond's Bride," with John Howard and Heather Angel.

* * *

Hoppy Rides Again.

William Boyd is cast again as the hard riding, straight shooting Cassidy, whose efforts in behalf of justice for the underdog highlights the "Hopalong" series of adventures, in "Range War," a Majestic feature for the last two days of the week. Hoppy is called upon by a San Francisco banker to find the outlaw who has been robbing the stage, and in rounding up the culprit there is a lot of flying hoofs and bullets. On the bill "Waterfront" is also shown. This is the story of life and love on the waterfront of a big city.

* * *

Woman of Beauty.

A woman so beautiful and glamorous that one sight of her is enough to make a famous criminal come out of hiding and face the law which has long sought to entrap him, is the role in "Algiers" which brought Hedy Lamarr to the American screen and catapaulted her to fame. Sigrid Gurie, a much better actress, who also has a featured role in the picture, was completely overshadowed by the new beauty. "Algiers" is at the Park, with "The Flying Irishman," starring Douglas Corrigan.

Boone Jamboree Troupe Returns to City Next Week

There is a stock of fun, music and lively barn dance rhythm in store for showgoers when the Boone County Jamboree plays its second engagement at the Madison theater next Thursday afternoon and evening.

Headlining the stars of the Boone County WLW radio show will be the homespun humorist from Short Creek, Ky., Lazy Jim Day; Helen Diller, known as one of the fastest yodlers on the air; Jenny Carlson with his sassy, singing dummy; the Kentucky Girls, Jo and Alma, and several other entertainers who are familiar to the radio audiences of the Boone County folks.

Playing throughout the performances will be the Drifting Pioneers with their cross-roads comedian, Denny.

The Boone County unit played at the Madison about a year ago. The stage show will be supplemented with the usual picture bill.

FISH AND GAME MEMBERS DINE

Association Dedicates New Clubhouse on Farm Tonight.

The Richland County Fish and Game Protective association will dedicate its new clubhouse northeast of Mansfield with an oyster supper and entertainment at 6:30 p. m. today.

The clubhouse, recently completed, is located on the R. B. Gardner farm just off route 42 about four miles from the city. The association recently leased 260 acres from Gardner for dog running grounds and will hold its field trials at the farm, Atty. John L. Catlett, secretary, said.

A part of the association's meetings and entertainment programs will be held in the new clubhouse, he added.

GUARDS CONSIDER INMATES' PEACE

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—(U.P.)—When a man goes to jail he is entitled to some peace and quiet, in the opinion of the New South Wales Prisons department.

Warders in New South Wales prisons have to wear slippers at night when it's dry so that they won't disturb the prisoners. When it's raining they wear galoshes.

From 'Swing' to Classics

Robert Isele, 19-year-old trombone soloist with the United States Marine band, said to be one of the youngest soloists with a top flight band anywhere in the world, jumped from swing music right into the midst of the classics when he joined the military band. Isele, shown above, will be heard here Oct 29 when the Marine band gives two concerts at the Mansfield high school auditorium.

* * * * *

ONLY 19, BUT TROMBONE STAR IS ONE OF MARINE BAND SOLOISTS

When the United States Marine band comes to Mansfield Oct 29, the name of Robert Isele will be found among the soloists and thereby hangs one of the Young America success tales.

Isele, a Harrisburg, Pa. boy, is only 19 years old but he has traveled from dance swing bands to trombone soloist with the Marine band and is one of the few 'teen age musicians with a top flight band anywhere in the world. His accomplishment is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the Marine band is one of the finest military bands in the world and its musical standards are as high as those of the leading symphonies.

Isele's career began with his high school band in Harrisburg. While doing his serious work with the school band, he was making extra money by playing with swing bands at nearby dance places.

He first began to attract attention when his school band entered the national competitions at which leading bandmasters of the country were judges. The band won first prize in its class for three consecutive years. Encouraged by these bandmasters who were enthusiastic about his work, Isele began to concentrate on serious music and study and enrolled in the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y.

When his course was completed he went to Washington, D. C., where he was given an audition by Capt. Taylor Branson, the Marine band conductor, and was promptly selected.

His enlistment dates only from June 30, 1937. But in dazzling sequence, young Isele was promoted to "first chair" and subsequently to soloist. He also "doubles" on the 'cello, playing that instrument with the band's orchestral combination.

The youthful musician who once blew a swing "slip horn" now plays the trombone and the razzle-dazzle of swing has given way to the classics, which make up the major portion of the Marine band programs.

The Marine band, under the baton of William Santlemann, will present two concerts at Senior High auditorium a week from Sunday under the auspices of the Junior Association of Commerce.

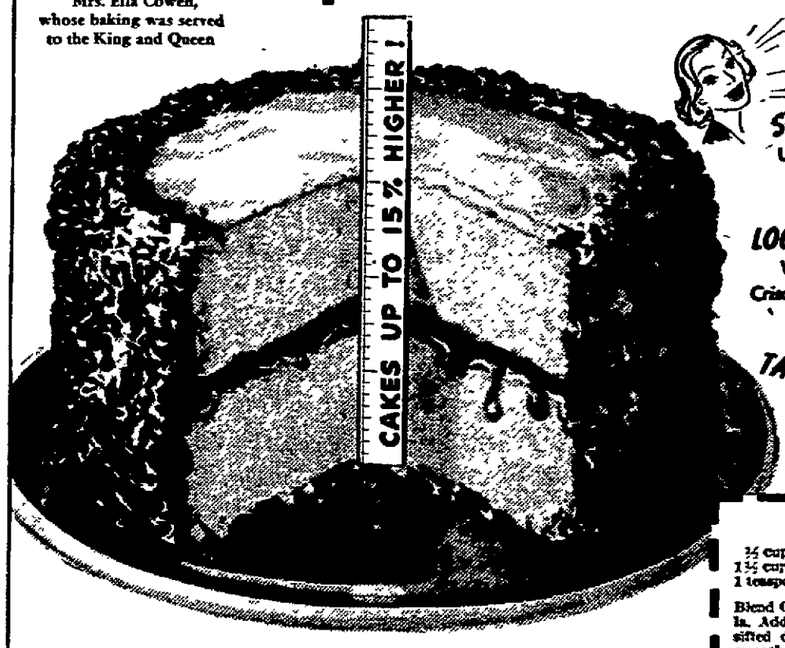
New "SURE-MIX" CRISCO amazes expert...makes cakes better 3 ways



SEE—IT'S HIGHER! Up to 15% higher than the same cake with other shortenings.

LOOK—IT'S LIGHTER! With your usual cake recipe, "Sure-Mix" Crisco gives a feathery lightness no other shortening can give you.

TASTE—IT'S TENDERER! Better eating than any cake you ever made!

NUT CRUNCH WHITE CAKE

½ cup Crisco; 1½ cups sugar; 1 teaspoon vanilla; ½ cup water; 2 cups sifted cake flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 4 egg whites

Blend Crisco, sugar and vanilla. Add water alternately with sifted dry ingredients. (Note smooth Crisco batter.) Fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in two "Crisco-ed" 8-inch pans 30-35 minutes in moderate oven (360° F.).

COOKED CREAM FILLING: Mix ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup scalded milk. Cook over boiling water till thick; slowly add 4 beaten egg yolks. Cook 10 minutes. Cool. Add ½ teaspoon almond extract. Crush ½ lb. peanut brittle finely; add half of brittle to half of filling. Spread between layers. Coat sides with remaining filling. Ice top with sugar coating (mix 1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar with 2 tablespoons milk and ½ teaspoon almond extract). Then coat sides and border the top with remaining crushed brittle.

LEGACY OF LOVE + + + + + +

By KATHRN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1939)

SYNOPSIS

Rita Rhodes, heiress to a large fortune when she is 25 or sooner if she marries, is deeply hurt and mystified when Preston Meeker suggests that they made a mistake in their engagement. She breaks it, of course, as they sit in masquerade costumes in a lantern-lighted Pasadena garden but wonders what is the matter with her that men treat her so heartlessly. She is pretty, she knows, but Preston is the third fiance to break the bonds. She wishes her perennially young mother, Delores, were with her instead of in Paris as she detests Wilmot Green, Delores' fourth husband, and hates to face him with the news. Also to face the comment of the newspaper columnists who have described her a flirtatious glamour girl. When Preston leaves her under the lanterns, the bushes behind her part and a man in a grotesque clown's costume appears, saying, "It's a darn shame! A low-down fortune hunter like Meeker hot-footing it way from a girl of your type! I'm at your service and you're going to see a lot of me." He disappears as others approach. Despite her resentment at his snooping Rita thrills to an exciting warmth. Green, fifteen years Delores' junior, is gruff, saying Rita herself must cable her mother just as Delores cables him that she is divorcing him. He leaves at once for Paris. Rita recognizes the voice of Stanton, her new chauffeur, engaged by Green, as that of the clown. He had phoned her the night before that he was going to take her out. Not knowing why, she allows him to drive her to the planetarium high above Los Angeles.

CHAPTER IV

A chilly breeze blew Rita's hair back from her forehead, made her huddle inside her coat. An old oak softly rattled its branches above them.

Stanton reached up and deftly picked a dry leaf from the crown of her head, glistening under the street lamp. His hand came to rest a bare instant on her shoulder. He began unsteadily, "And I "

She wheeled toward him expectantly, but his hand fell away.

"You'd better get back into the car before you catch cold, Miss Rhodes," he suggested tonelessly.

She wondered what this was all about, was provoked at both him and herself. She told herself that she would discharge him tomorrow —not tonight She wondered why she procrastinated.

During the long drive back to Pasadena, he said little. She almost wished he were not now the correctly-mannered chauffeur. She felt inclined to be sweetly sad, sweetly lonely, the way a woman feels who is on the verge of giving away to some dangerous inner emotion

But she decided to stamp this out immediately. What was the ulterior motive behind this man's proffered friendship? He was getting the perfect opportunity to kidnap her tonight. Oh, she's been a fool to come out with him!

Stanton at last brought the car to a halt before the thirty-roomed palatial residence of the Wilmot Greens. Rita had the car door open on her side and was out long before Staunton could do proper chauffeur duty.

She had started up the broad stone steps when he inquired anxiously, "You're not going to discharge me, are you, Miss Rhodes? This job is necessary—very necessary for me to have."

She paused abruptly. She flung out sarcastically, "You've a wife and a dozen hungry children to feed, I suppose!"

"Nothing of the kind, Miss Rhodes. I'm a single man—but ambitious to—to amount to something."

His sudden humility somehow lessened her determination to deal firmly with him.

She said, a little doubtfully, "You have a peculiar way of going about it, I must say!"

"I wish you could—consider my request, Miss Rhodes."

Heavens! How deferential the man was all of a sudden! She couldn't tolerate him! She started to tell him so, then was caught by something in his face, and the tall clean manliness of him standing there beneath the porch light. Her common sense told her what she should do, but somehow she couldn't disappoint him.

"As long as you behave yourself, Stanton—you may stay. But please remember—you're only on trial here."

"Yes, Miss Rhodes." Uriah Heep couldn't have done better.

She flung away from his provokingly stirred. She told herself that she detested his "yessing," which from any other chauffeur would be most commendable. What was getting into her? She must watch herself. This oddly compelling man might be trying to make her fall for him. And of course that would be altogether ridiculous. His good references could have been forged. Wilmot had been so upset by Delores' behavior so soon after hiring Stanton he probably hadn't troubled to verify references.

* * *

Stanton could be any sort of dangerous imposter. Why had he crashed the Frosts' masquerade disguised as a clown, how had he managed to edge into the Green menage as chauffeur?

Back in the house again, Rita was immediately surrounded by social responsibilities. Hobbs met her at the door and gave her a dozen telephone messages. Jilly Stern hoped she would call her as soon as she came in; Hank Bleekman, Bob Dilling, and the others would call again later.

"If any one wants me, I'm not in, Hobbs," was Rita's disinterested rejoiner.

She wandered into the somber redwood-panelled library, slumped down in a big armchair beside a table loaded with books, newspapers and magazines. She idly picked up a paper, tried to read the headlines, but could make no sense of the printed words. Around and around in her mind was running a maddening train of thought. Did being jilted make a girl lose her self-esteem, did it make her willing to take up with any one—even one of the servants?

But strangely, Stanton spoke and acted more like the men in her own set than one in his position should. She wondered what his background was. Had he seen better days? He couldn't be over twenty-five. That would give him years to rehabilitate his fortunes.

* * *

He had said it was necessary for him to have, not any job—but this job. What did that mean? He had intimated that he wanted to get on in the world. That was laudable, even if his bold assurance was rather more—at some moments—than she knew how to cope with. He certainly had taken unheard of privileges for an employe Unconsciously, she caressed the hand over which his had laid.

She jumped to her feet resolutely. If she intends to go to Seebreeze tomorrow, she'd better get a good night's rest, she didn't have time to worry about a man who apparently was well able to shift for himself, if pure brazenness counted for anything.

She entered her upstairs livingroom, scowled at the pale green silk pajama suit that Lernie had laid out for her to sleep in tonight. This bit of loveliness she had bought for her trousseau. So Lernia already knew that the engagement to Preston Meeker was off! If Lernie knew, so did all the servants, and probably Stanton had told them. What fun they must have discussing the capricious only daughter of the house, making her out the superficial creature she knew she wasn't.

But what was this mystery that trailed her? Why had so many of her matrimonial plans gone haywire? What was back of it? And now the problem of keeping Stanton. Who and what was he, and what did he want of her? Oh, she was certainly walking on eggshells!

"I won't need you any more tonight, Lernie," she told the sleepy-eyed maid who had been sitting up for her.

Rita watched the girl's petite, black-uniformed, little figure leave the room. She wondered if Lernie would try to flirt with the new chauffeur, decided she would.

She frowned, snatched up the lace-trimmed green coat and trousers, flung them violently into a wastebasket. "I—I hate you!" she spat out.

She delved into a bureau drawer and found a suit of loud black and white stripes, quickly undressed and got into it, hoping to make herself feel gay But she slowly buttoned the coat, nearly overcome by a sweet dreaminess which alarmingly conflicted with her recent resolve to ignore, and decidedly not succumb to, a pair of level gray eyes and a vibrant baritone voice.

She laid her head on a white silk-cased pillow beneath her dubonnet satin bed canopy, voting herself the biggest of snobs. Why, she could do as she pleased when she came into her money, couldn't she? Or she could marry before she was twenty-five, and immediately have all her inheritance. It wouldn't be anything very alarming if she married some one socially beneath her—other girls had done it. She wondered how it would work out, how much courage it would take to defy her mother and Wilmot—but then, Wilmot, if divorced, would soon be out of the picture. But no doubt her mother, from what her recent letters indicated, was planning to marry into the nobility, and that would make her daughter's plebeian tastes stand out like broken teeth in a comb.

A tear trickled down Rita's cheek. Why should she be sacrificed for the whims of others? From now on, she would do exactly as she pleased, no matter what came of it.

But she was to discover that this was impossible, from several different angles.

U. S. Speeds Up Program to Boom Latin American Trade

HULL STARTS NEGOTIATIONS ON NEW PACTS

European War Intensifies Movement to Enlarge All American Markets.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cordell Hull today pushed the United States' drive to enlarge its markets in all parts of the world, especially Latin America.

He announced plans to negotiate a reciprocal trade treaty with Uruguay. Negotiations for trade agreements are under way with Argentina, Venezuela, Chile, and a supplemental agreement south with Cuba. The present treaty with Belgium is being revised.

Go To Limit.

There was every indication that the American drive in South American markets, favored now by the European war, would be intensified to the limit. A conference of Latin American and United States treasury experts is to be held in Guatemala next month, and an economic conference will proceed concurrently in Washington, both groups seeking to devise means of closer financial and trade co-operation between the United States and the other republics of the hemisphere.

There are already 19 reciprocal trade agreements in operation, 10 of which are with Latin American countries.

In South and Central America, Paraguay, Bolivia, Panama, the Dominican republic, Peru and Mexico are the only countries which do not have agreements or are not negotiating for agreements.

The blockade of Germany has disrupted Nazi trade with South America, and submarine warfare has proved a deterrent to Allied commerce.

Secretary Hull said recently, at the foreign trade convention in New York, that every effort should be made to expand South American trade, and that the government would use every possible means to encourage and develop this trade.

Uruguay, he announced yesterday, has agreed to accord American goods any advantages given competing imports from other countries, in accordance with reciprocal trade principles.

Ex-Congressman Flays Business Group On Bigelow

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A Cleveland business men's group, appealing for funds to oppose the Bigelow pension plan, said today "heavy registration of old people, colored persons and relief workers is reported all over the state, indicating there will be a large vote by those in favor of the Bigelow amendments."

The statement was contained in a letter to Stephen M. Young, former congressman, seeking a $100 subscription. Young made public the letter and his reply, in which he said "I am sure that you and most of your group voted for Robert Alfonso Taft for United States senator and George H. Bender for congressman-at-large, both of whom advocated the Townsend plan x x x you sowed the dragon's teeth."

Young nevertheless expressed the conviction the Bigelow amendments would be defeated.

SNOW CRUISER'S VISIT DELAYED

Byrd's Antarctic Machine Not Due to Arrive Until Tuesday.

The 25-ton Byrd Antarctic "snow cruiser" which was scheduled to be in Mansfield Sunday night will not reach here until Tuesday or Wednesday, due to a change in schedule, state highway officials learned today.

The huge machine, too large to be transported on a railroad train, will be delayed in leaving Chicago and probably will not enter Ohio before Tuesday, the Armour Institute of Technology said today.

The "cruiser" will be taken from Chicago to Boston and will be used by Admiral Byrd on his next trip into the Antarctic.

Aunt of Flier Lost At Sea Says Body Found May Be Nephew's.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va.—(AP)—Mrs. Marion Greer of Parkersburg, an aunt of Tommy Smith, Clarksburg, W. Va., aviator who has been missing since he started a Transatlantic flight from Maine last May 28, said today that she believed a plane found in the ocean by a trawler was Smith's.

The wreckage of a monoplane was caught in the trawler's nets during a storm Wednesday and was towed to Boston.

Capture Child Molester, 2 Officers Told

Up and Down THE STREET

No matter what mode of transportation is used, the 12-mile trip from Mansfield to Shelby takes from 20 to 30 minutes, but Charles Simon of Shelby knows that it can take a lot longer. In fact, it took Simon exactly three hours and a half and his conveyance was in motion most of the time. The train on which he was making the trip was halted halfway to Shelby by a crossing accident, and it was forced to back into Mansfield where it was routed over another railroad to Galion. There it was shifted to still another road and finally at Shelby Junction was switched back to the original line. Walking would have been quicker, Simon believes.

Evidently this "perfect weather" isn't here for long—if you believe in signs. When the wild geese fly south, it's a sign winter is near. Elmer Adams, 351 Lexington avenue, saw a large flock flying straight south about 8:30 a. m. today. He estimated there were from 75 to 100 geese in the flock.

The customs of bachelorhood are not so easy to shake off, according to Attorney Francis R. O'Brien, who recently returned from his honeymoon. After the wedding O'Brien and his bride, the former Elizabeth Albers, made their first stop in Detroit and when the clerk gave him a registration card, he wrote "Francis R. O'Brien." And there stood Elizabeth, unmistakably a bride with her corsage of orchids and new luggage. The clerk, looked at her, smiled, and said, "Isn't your wife staying here?" It was one of "life's most embarrassing moments."

Jack Frost has failed to do his usual colorful job of painting the leaves this autumn, Mansfield nature lovers say. Heavy frosts arrived so late that the leaves ripened on the trees and do not show as much of the red and yellow coloring as usual. Many of the leaves turned brown without going through the colorful stage it was pointed out, but they are remaining on the trees longer this year.

VOLKA QUITS

State Announces Resignation of Soldiers' Home Head.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—John Volka, commandant of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' home at Sandusky since March 31, 1936, resigned today, the state welfare department announced.

Herbert Mooney, assistant welfare director, said no action on the resignation would be taken pending the return of Director Charles Sherwood, who is in New York.

It was considered a foregone conclusion, however, that the resignation would be accepted since the department had indicated a change in the home administration was desired.

Volka, appointed by the former Davey administration, gave no reason for his resignation.

VANDALS STEAL SCHOOL TROPHY

And Newman Youngsters Are Mad About It—Bromfield Award Taken by Thieves.

Pupils at Newman school, especially members of the school's track teams and the principal, E. W. Kissell, were up in arms today.

The reason for all the concern was the burglarizing of the building Wednesday night during which thieves smashed and carried off the school's prize possession.

It was the bronze Louis Bromfield trophy, donated by Richland county famed novelist and won by the Newman relay team at the Mansfield relays last spring.

In addition, Kissell said that several other trophies were smashed by thieves who apparently searching for metal that could be converted into money.

He told police that several old coins on display at the school had also been taken by the burglars who ransacked all the rooms in the building.

Officers said that entrance was gained by smashing a window in a side door. Other locks in the building were not fastened.

HOUSE NUMBERS 'TRANSPLANTED' AS HALLOWEEN PRANKS BEGIN

The police are going to get some Halloween pranksters who have turned to vandalism if they don't watch out.

That was the warning that Police Chief Meade K. Bates issued today as complaints came to him of Halloween pranksters damaging property in Woodland last night.

In fact, 14 residents in that part of the city woke up today to find their house numbers which were on small stakes in their front yards missing.

The numbers and a large sign belonging to a contractor were found "planted" on the lawn at the home of R. W. Sellers, 551 West Townview circle.

Bates said the number plates could not be identified and were brought to police headquarters where the owners may call for them.

He warned that the night shift of officers had been instructed to make additional patrols into the residential sections of the city and that youths engaged in any depredations would be hastily taken before juvenile authorities.

He said he would seek punishment in all cases where vandalism had been practiced and that the Halloweeners "might be" placed in jail for the night.

FLAYS ELEANOR

Johnson Calls Mrs. Roosevelt's Comment 'War Baiting.'

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—A comment by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in her newspaper column on Col. Charles Lindbergh's recent neutrality broadcast was described last night by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson as "exactly the kind of stuff that got us into the war in 1917."

Johnson declared that Lindbergh "for speaking his pro-American opinion against other policies has been called pro-Nazi by such emotionally biased pro-war pundists as Walter Lippman and Dorothy Thompson and now — today — by the first lady of the land herself."

(In her syndicated column "My Day," Mrs. Roosevelt said Dorothy Thompson, another columnist, "sensed in Col. Lindbergh's speech a sympathy with Nazi ideals which I thought existed but could not bring myself to believe was really there.")

PAIR ASSIGNED TO FULL-TIME HUNT FOR MAN

Detective and Deputy Sheriff Ordered to "Bring Him In"; Suspect Released.

Detective Lee J. Remy, veteran Mansfield police officer, and Deputy Sheriff Glenn P. Freeman today were assigned the job of capturing a child-molester whose activities have been called to the attention of police at least eight times in the past four months.

The officers were detailed by Police Chief Meade K. Bates and Sheriff E. P. Long with orders to "bring in" the man.

The two-man squad was created yesterday. Chief Bates said the officers, one from the city and one from the county, would be given free range to work at will but that the molester "must be brought in" regardless of the length of time it required.

He said that while it was believed that the man who has lured at least eight small girls into his car in various parts of the county and then released them unharmed, was harmless, that school children would be "much safer" with the man in custody.

Order Case 'Cleaned Up.'

Bates explained that through an arrangement with Sheriff Long, the officers were to remain on the case until it is "cleaned up."

Meanwhile it was learned that the officers yesterday had taken into custody a suspect whom they later released. A woman who said she saw the man with a child on one of the country roads and one of the girls he is said to have molested failed to identify the suspect.

Remy and Freeman have part of a license number given them by one of the school girls who recently was lured into the man's machine and released on a country road in daylight.

Police and sheriffs deputies both of whom have been working on the case also have interviewed several other suspects. None have been jailed.

Yesterday noon police were called to East Second and Hedges street after two small girls reported that two men in a parked car had "bothered" them and chased them down the street.

Pegler Finds Confusion Reigns In Ohio on Bigelow Plan to Pay Aged Pensions

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CLEVELAND—Believe it or not, here is a state of the American union—and one of the good states, too, with colleges and high schools as common as filling stations and enough Phi Beta Kappa keys to gild a statehouse dome—going to the polls a short time hence to vote on a dream-bucks proposition without knowing whether this pension plan will cost $50,000,000 a year or $382,000,000.

Fifty million is the figure hit upon by Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, an inveterate politico-religious bleeding heart and carpetbagger of Cincinnati who has muscled—or chiseled—in on the Townsend movement and offered a constitutional amendment providing pensions of $50 a month for single-handed persons over 60 and $80 a month for couples over 60 living together.

The Ohio Emergency council, a statistical and propaganda bureau hurriedly tossed together, estimates the cost as either $382,838,000 under one interpretation of the amendment or not less than $303,260,000 a year under the most optimistic construction. The state tax commissioner, after long study of the proposal itself, which is fruity with ambiguities and imponderables, and of the established tax data, has put down $310,000,000 as his guess.

* * *

Moreover, Mr. Bigelow, a member of the "God will provide" school of economics, himself has indulged in a roomy variation, for he once reckoned the cost at $100,000,000 a year, but blew on his fingers and cooled them off when the enemy began to predict that the schools must close and the kiddies become little bums to provide money for the citizens in his age bracket.

Now, old age has its platform and box office appeal, as many sweaty hallelujah-shouters and political piecemen have discovered to their profit since Dr. Townsend first emerged from the mental confusion known on the map as Los Angeles. But the little ones are sure-fire, too, and a choice between starving the one and blighting the other is a cruel and unusual test of citizenship.

Mr. Bigelow has fought long and, for the most part, rather plaintively for the underprivileged, but, nevertheless, dabbled in Coughlinism a few years ago and therefore is not above a suspicion of opportunism and wreckerism.

He reared back and invoked a divine blessing on the strident ravings of the memorable Coughlin convention of 1936, and, considering that this oratorical debauch was held under a planned and formulated dictatorship copied from Hitler's very own, it may be believed that he likes dictatorial methods or, at best, doesn't object.

The old gentleman has been around so much that he has now run smack into himself in the darkness of his own bewilderment.

* * *

There is no point in going into all the absurd doubts and contradictions that have been flushed out of the weeds in the search for an understanding. The people who have jobs, who have children in school, who speculate vaguely and with dread on the chaos of a state suddenly deprived of government, the people who have invested savings, and, of course, the perfidious industrialists who emigrated here from hell and never got fully naturalized, all have been studying the figures.

The newspapers, generally, have inclined to the belief, but very politely and not with the old-time editorial thunder, that the cost would be not less than $200,000,000, which still would be about $50,000,000 more than the entire state budget at present.

But, actually, nobody knows how many would qualify or how much the federal government would chip in, because eligibility is not qualified by "need," or how many, between 60 and 65, would be entirely the problem of the state in view of the fact that federal aid doesn't apply to persons below 65.

Nobody knows how many eligibles are earning more than the pension rate and how many of that unknown number would quit work, and there is just no telling, or even guessing, how many, if any, recipients of earned service pensions of one kind or another would be ineligible.

* * *

It is not agreed whether housewives, farmers, small merchants, dentists, chiropodists, peddlers, fishermen and odd-job workmen would be eligible under the wording, which seems to restrict the benefits to persons "retired from gainful occupations as wage earners." Nor is it clear whether those who sowed a wild oat and did penance in the gow even as far back as 40 years ago, are qualified in view of the proscription of persons "not under conviction for crime." Does a man or woman once convicted stay convicted?

They could vote with equal conviction on the proposition "How high is up?" or "What would you rather do or go fishing?" with the difference, however, that if they guess wrong on this one they may have no state of Ohio left.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There are two little words guaranteed to make the movie actor see red: Salary cut.

Hollywood is hearing those two words again now, has heard them since the outbreak of war in Europe. The words, timed artfully to the accompaniment of the dull thuds of many heads dropped under a sharpened economic axe, were being whispered before the first bomb was dropped on Poland—and with the expected results.

At this writing the actors have not been asked, in so many words, to accept voluntary trimmings. But there has been a great deal of talk, in executive quarters, about the dire state of affairs and the sorry outlook for profits because of the foreign markets.

When and if the request comes, the actors will be skeptical—and with cause for which the producers have only themselves as a tribe to thank. Through the years the movie-goers have cried wolf a couple of times too often.

* * *

If history is repeating itself on the war front, it certainly looks due for a repeat on the movie battle lines. As in 1939, so in 1914, at the outbreak of the World war.

Old-timers can recall the trepidation with which they assembled at executive calls to hear the bad news, and to be asked to take a 50 per cent cut. Some of them remember, even, how glad they were to take it—Jean Hersholt saw his munificent $15 a week slashed to $7.50; Frank Borzage began drawing $6 instead of $12, as did the late John Gilbert and others. And they remember, too, what happened: the movie industry boomed, the American films stole the world spotlight which they have never since relinquished.

Another time was 1927, a year when things were deemed to look pretty black—but it was just before 1929, when the industry reached its peak along with other industries, and "prosperity" was with America, however big the subsequent collapse.

And then there was 1933. The bank holidays, and—although this was merely Hollywood symbolism at work, no doubt—the earthquake. I remember attending wild assemblies of indignant actors at the old Writers' club, hearing spokesmen argue pro and con while the floors rocked and the rafters groaned. It was an industry emergency, the actors were told, and to save the good old moving pictures everybody would have to take a 50 per cent slash. The "cut" won out, finally, with the promise that losses would be restored. The "cut" lasted for the agreed three weeks. I don't know any actor who has been paid back for the "loan" to date.

* * *

From that last "cut" can be dated the rise of the various talent guilds, and the decline as a potent factor in movie labor life of the old Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The academy, you see, had a hand in convincing the actors of the "emergency."

I've asked quite a few actors how they'd feel now about a "voluntary cut," and I haven't found one who wouldn't want to be shown first, in black and white, the real necessity for it.
